Teamwork

Teamwork allows participants to develop their athletic abilities to the highest potential. Through working with others, personal satisfaction and sense of accomplishment are obtained. Being involved in sports requires determination and perseverance. After long hours are devoted to practice and conditioning, the many talents are tested on the various courts, fields, and tracks. With the encouragement from other students and the fine guidance of the coaches, Kimball teams have been continually victorious.

Football

The Varsity Football team had a great season this year, beating many tough competitors. After losing to Lamphere in the opening game, Kimball bounced back to win every game, including a 14-0 victory over arch-rival Dondera, ending the fine season with a first place in the SMA. (1) J.V. football provides practice and experience for future varsity players.

Matt Kempf scrambles to find an opening in a fierce game against Madison. (2) Senior fullback D'Arcy Tyrrell, Kimball's leading varsity rusher, struggles for a few extra yards against Southfield. Kimball came out victorious and shut-out the Blue Jays 22-0. Scoring a touchdown for Kimball (3) is senior quarterback Dale Vestrand, who showed excellent leadership throughout the season.

Sports Candid

Sports Candid: let us see the real abilities of the athletes that we normally don't see on the sports pages.

Jim Seery (1) takes a rest on the field in the middle of a long and tiring game. (2) Bill Barsuhn expresses his agony after the first half mile. (3) Dave Atkins shows his great form for the camera. (4) "I think I missed," says Margie Seidel as she swings at another high ball. (5) Kimball and Dondero engage in a game of "Johnny-pile-on," which ended in a victory for Kimball. (6) Kathy Watch: Is she dancing or playing tennis?

Coaches

Much of the credit of Kimball's outstanding athletic program is due to the fine coaching staff. Richard Zulch (1) has coached Boy's cross country for 17 years, he also coached track for 15 years. Mr. Temerian, (2) Varsity Football coach, is practically a coaching legend, he has coached football for 21 years. Clyde Ewell (3) keeps busy the year round; during the fall, he coaches Girl's Cross Country; in the winter, the gymnastics team; and in the spring, he is Assistant Coach of Boy's Track. Mr. Nash (4) coaches both Freshman Football and Baseball. This year he coached Girl's Varsity Volleyball. Coach Jones, (5) Athletic Director, has inspired the Varsity Basketball team since 1957. Frank Clouser (6) has donated his last 13 springs to coaching the Varsity Baseball team. During the winter, he serves as Assistant Basketball Coach. (7) Bob Sandtvelt coaches Boys' Track and is Assistant Coach of Boys' Cross Country. (8) Bill Turkington helps girls develop their basketball skills as coach of the Varsity team. Jim Patrick (9) is coach of the Girls' Track Team, and manages the "Spirit of Kimball" winter Track Club.

Activities

Many clubs and activities are at hand for students who choose to make their four years in high school something more than just academic. In addition to making school more enjoyable, these organization create and build many qualities which will be helpful in the future. Not only do students socialize in these in-school and extra-curricular activities; many gain leadership abilities while others learn to co-operate in a group. Ranging from music to student government, and school publications to Homecoming, chances are there is an activity which interests everyone.

The World of Music

Being a part of any musical group is both rewarding and fun. Whether it's producing beautiful harmony over seventy students or exhibiting perfect tone in a solo piece, music is a universal language. Vocal and instrumental music are similar in the way that each student is an individual part of the entire group. His responsibility is to know his own section of the piece and to portray his best work in class and at concerts. All the music courses are open to any student who has a little bit of talent and a lot of interest. Promotion to a higher choir or band is usually accomplished by auditions. In any case, being a member of these groups shows school spirit and dedication.

Sound of Music

Thespians Drama Club presented another successful musical, "The Sound Of Music".

This classic love story told of a young woman's love for a wealthy captain in the Austrian Army and his family.

(1) Maria (Diana Gilbert) brings the "Sound of Music" to the VanTrapp children.

"When you know the notes to sing... you can sing most anything", she recites.

(2) Liesl (Lisa Robinson) listens closely as (Ed Nahhat) sings of what the future holds for her.

(3) Learning to dance, as every young gentleman should, is not a simple task.

Kurt VanTrapp (Steve Shaw) seems apprehensive, as Maria teaches him a step.

(4) Baroness (Lisa Craig) pours on the charm by singing sweetly to the captain.

Front Page

The Front Page, this year's fall play, was a serious drama about a newspaper office in the mid-30's. The reporters were closely covering the scheduled hanging of Earl Williams, a murderer. Hildy Johnson (1) (Ed Nahhat) proceeds to tell his former boss, Walter Burns, exactly what he thinks of his wily ways. Endicott (Kevin Nolan) stares at Hildy in wonder; imagine talking to Walter like that! Reporter Kruger (2) (Eric Ward) passes the time strumming his banjo while waiting for a story. Mollie Malloy (3) (Kim Sohigian) gives one last desperate look over her shoulder before she leaps from the window. Mollie would rather jump than reveal the whereabouts of Earl. Diamond Louie (4) (Roger Smith, left) and Tony (Craig Schwartz, right) use their strong arm tactics to politely remove the meddling Mrs. Grant (Julie Mazurek).

Debate

To really excell in Debate, you have to be dedicated and take a lot of time doing research. In addition to the classwork, there are debates on weekends that the students attend. The 1978-1979 (1) Debate Team: Front row (l to r) Diane Hoffmann, Dennis Cunningham, Bart Craig, Pam Burgess, Eric Johnson, Alison Rogell, (second row) Peter Bokschoten, Paul Stankewitz, Barb Masta, Steve Haremski, Terry Mohan, Diane Larson, Tom Kaylor, Chris Pounds, (back row) Kim Garvin, Dave Baldrige, Nick McCracken, Ian Karakas, Theresa Williams, Cheryl Sharp, Chris Cunningham. (2) Preparing her presentation, Diane Larson stops her work to ponder on a puzzling point in her assignment. (3) Keeping reference notecards is one of the duties of the debater. Steve Haremski looks through the file case to get concrete evidence for his upcoming debate. (4) Working on their project, Dave Baldrige and Dennis Cunningham (seated) get assistance from Diane Hoffmann and Tom Kaylor.

Roundtable

Roundtable never seems to stop doing good things for Kimball and our surrounding community. The members of Roundtable are elected by their peers to represent the student body. (1) Senior members: (1 to r) Claudia Tossi, Peter Bokschoten, Paul Wilkins, Steve Haremski, Mary Fallon, Debbie Porter, Ann Malinasky, sponsor, Mr. Light, (back row) Kathy Hartrick, Steve Clelland, Kris Kennedy, Claudia Carney, and Julie Winowiecki. ## Lancer '79

The production of each year's Lancer is a grueling, time-consuming job. The preparation and organization needed to produce a 264 page yearbook constitutes much effort. Getting ads (the Lancer's main source of revenue) is a difficult job, but Ad Manager Kim Arnold (1) still "manages" a smile. Pushing to meet another deadline, Rhonda Phillips, Tina Ewen, and Mary Hramiec (2) combine their talents in copywriting.

Herald

Putting out the school newspaper requires a lot of dedication and interest. The Herald staff members work for weeks writing articles about all the activities and news of the school. This includes humorous stories and cartoons, all of which must be completed in time for monthly deadlines. (1) Editor Mary Fisher works many hours drawing up the layouts of the pages and choosing stories for the staff members to write. Mary then proof-reads and edits them. (2) The Herald photographers consist of: (1 to r) Steve Orlando, Steve Taratuta, Tim Limer, and Ray Lang. The Herald family: (3) (front center) Ron Stefanik, (center) Scott Yoshonis, Steve Orlando, (back, l to r) Ray Lang, Mary Fisher, Bill Winters, Maggie Tomich, Andy MacDonald, Jim Russell, Mark Harrison, Chris Sutter, and Steve Taratuta.

50's Day Fun

Every Spring, Kimball catches Fifties Fever and it's time again to set aside a week in remembrance of that exciting era.

(1) The pie-eating contest is one of the most amusing events of the week. Many contestants were apprehensive about getting their faces full of whipped cream, but Renee Rashid eagerly awaits the start.

(2) Dressing up in a typical fifties outfit is always fun.

Cindy Hay shows her spirit as she strolls to her next class.

(3) Pedaling enthusiastically and displaying his "macho" image, Roger Smith leads the pack of tricycle jockeys.

(4) One event that many students can participate in is the tug-o-war contest.

At the climax of the battle, seniors (l to r) Dale Vestrand, Dave Sicheneder, and Jim Seery struggle furiously to keep their side ahead.

Valentine Dance

Roundtable sponsored a Valentine's Dance this year and it turned out well! Couples were married and it was a time of romance for all. (1) Lori Lynch and Jennifer Cochran evidently enjoy dancing to the disco beat, as many others did. Romance (2) was in the air on this night of hearts and flowers. Art Harland and Lynn Goswick made the best out of the circumstances that night. (3) Experienced "boogie-ers" Cathy Lynch and Burgess Young showed the crowd their stuff, though not everyone was concentrating on dancers and dancing. (4) Even Laura Gentile and Becky Stepansky take time off from their dancing to flash a friendly smile. (5) Bill Winters, determined as he is, decided to find his own 'someone' for the Valentine's Dance, and he found Gerry Fedruk willing to be his buddy for the evening.

Homecoming

Homecoming is a time that is long awaited. Whether it's being nominated for the homecoming court or sending flowers to your friends, working on a float, or the getting ready to play in the big game, it's a time when everyone can get involved (1) In the float contest, the band stole the glory again, taking first place. Their slogan was, "The Knights will Stun the Eagles into a Rhapsody of Blue and Gold." (2) The Kimball offensive line clears the way for senior halfback, Doug Miles, who rushed for 391 yards this season. Traditionally a Homecoming King and Queen are nominated to represent outstanding leadership. (3) This year the honor was given to Jim Seery and Kathy Hartrick.

Homecoming

Fullback D'Arcy Tyrrell (1) evades the Ferndale defenders in a forty-four yard touchdown run. Half-time ceremonies (2) were highlighted by the Kimball A "Cappella Choir" as they sang the Alma Mater. Each senior wore a lettered sweater to signify his dedication to the group.

(1 to r) Darryl George, Ruth Worthington, Ed Nahhat, Diane Felix, Tom Kammer, Lisa Craig, and Sue Phillips. (3) With thunderous cheers and generous support for a victory, the crowd shows its dedication to the players. This year's Homecoming events have truly been memorable for all.

This year the students at Kimball suffered a tremendous loss, our school's namesake, Clarence M. Kimball, passed away. Mr. Kimball served on the Royal Oak School Board from 1945-1958 and was president from 1947-58. Mr. Kimball was born in St. Paul, Minnesota, in 1895. Clarence M. Kimball will never be forgotten for his belief in education and we at Kimball shall be proud to keep his name alive.

Powderpuff

The Junior-Senior Powder Puff game was one of this years most exciting sports events. An extremely close score kept the game hopping down into the last seconds. The Juniors put up a tremendous fight but the Senior Rush succeeded in halting the Junior drive with the final score standing at 10-8.

(1) Jane Cole evades Junior defender Carol Connelly as she makes a drive down the field. (2) The Senior Rush offensive line prepares to spring at the sound of the hike. (3) Sandy Zuehlke rapidly gains yards in her rush against the Rush.

Books, books, books! (1) Despite what people say, students do like to read. Why look at all these enthralled seniors! (2) Suzanne Drury and Mike Colling disco down to the boogie beat of the Marathon dance for the City of Hope.

Participants in the dance found sponsors to pay them per hour for donations to the charity. (3) Ann Kipp uses her artistic ability to create decorations for this year's French Club Dance, "A Knight in the Woods." The Foreign Language Club works for months preparing for the annual dance. (4) Macho-man Mason Nassar displays school spirit by his fifty's garb. A day is devoted to reveling in the fads of the past. (5) The road to class is a long, tiring road. Peter Ehrle now is on his way up the long winding road. (6) Jane Cole and Gina Briggs shout powderpuff team members onto victory from the sidelines.

Teachers

Students feel free to rely on many teachers for support and understanding as well as learning (which is normally considered the teacher's main obligation). Teaching on a personal basis with pupils is just as important as reciting the three R's. (1) James Patrick, also known affectionately as J.P., makes his Business Law class an experience to remember. (2) Business expertise is demonstrated to all students fortunate enough to have had Doris Brewer for their teacher. (3) Physical Education teacher Terry Wiseman returns to Kimball this year after spending some time over at Northwood Elementary School. Darlene Tobias (4), another athletic instructor, doubles as the sponsor for all of the Cheerleaders.

Teachers

Hours of endless grading, reading and writing await teachers each night. The preparation alone accounts for a majority of their time. School books and papers stack high after each week's assignments. Their briefcases are often bursting at the seams. They are our teachers, the ones who can drastically alter our future and permanently affect our records (plus give us lousy grades). Besides educating our minds, we can turn to them for understanding, advice and guidance. These are the keys which will enable us to remember many of our teachers for a long, long time. Students find that good teachers are usually few and far between, but the student body at Kimball is quite fortunate in having more than its share of reputable teachers.

Contemplating the automic theory, Mr. Myers is apparently lost in thought.

Academics

Kimball is very fortunate in having a wide variety of courses available for students to choose from. Class offerings range from extended to advanced and specialized classes, which help pupils of different abilities learn at their own pace. The wide selection ranges, for example, from Basic Math to Computer Science and Calculus; Environmental Science to Physics; World Geography to Psychology; English 1 to Advanced Composition, and Latin 1 to Spanish 8. This provides the opportunity to broaden knowledge in the subjects which personally interest the students. It also provides experience in new and challenging fields.

English

Pat Glick, Diane Larson, and Chris Sutter (1) (l to r) let their feelings be known about Dave Butcher in their Public Speaking class. (2) In English 3 & 4 it is required of students to give speeches in front of the class. Not only do they receive experience in researching information, they gain confidence in themselves which will be beneficial for the future. Jim Lind describes to the class how to read a marked deck of cards. (3) Linda Dean (left) and Carol Hilton search through the vertical files in the library for facts to finish their research papers. (4) Peter Theodoropoulos speaks to his classmates in Oral Communications. Being able to give an educational and interesting speech is not always simple. By taking this class students gain knowledge to overcome any problems they have in preparing presentations.

English

Reading (1) is a fundamental part of English. Here, Kelly Kocwell reads aloud a story for the class in English 1 & 2. (2) Stewart Kelly presents his epic production of "The History of English Grammar." It must be very exciting! Steve Budzinski calls for an encore and tries to hold himself in his chair. (3) American Studies is by far one of the best courses offered to the students. This class, strictly for Juniors, combines the fundamentals of English Literature along with the in-depth study of our heritage. There is no horse play in this class, the watchful eyes of Mrs. Estep and Miss Fell are forever peering over the class. Jeff Dreyer appears to be embarrassed by the actions of his fellow classmates Marta Datwyler. Kent Sikorski is amused by the whole matter.

English

Phyllis Fisher is called on by Mrs. Walker in Honors English I to read an important part of a story. The Journalism class (2) interviews Mr. Richard Brooks, one of our custodians, as part of their assignments. Journalism is different than other English classes in that it introduces the student to the operations of a newspaper and a yearbook. (3) In Acting and Interpretation, students have chances to let their real selves be known. Bill Winters involves Jerome Cook in his presentation. Lisa Craig and Nick David find it all very amusing. (4) The library is a great place to go to get work done in quiet. Many English courses acquaint the students with the library's uses. Sophomore Tom Rapson quickly finishes his homework that is due next hour.

Math

From balancing checkbooks to figuring slope, mathematics is of continual importance in your daily life. (1) Geometry requires Sandy Zuehlke total concentration in order to obtain the precision demanded by the subject. (2) Ray Blessman, Cindy Hay, and Tim Limer stifle giggles as Karen Joy attempts to teach them something in her temporary position as "teacher" of Jake's Algebra 3 & 4 class. A demon takes hold of (3) Becky Millard when her fingers touch the BIG compass; she leaps to the blackboard and wildly constructs arcs, angles and semi-circles galore! (4) Are these wide-eyed looks of innocence as innocent as they seem? Not on your life! Bill Underwood and Glenn Waldren are caught red-handed exchanging homework answers in General Math.

Hard at work (1) on their Extended Algebra test are (Bottom to top) Tony Scully, John Makinen, Jeff Muller, and Jeff Culpepper. (2) Being in its second year Computer Science has become very popular here at Kimball. Bob Knybel and Pat Kenealy are shown here typing in a new program. (3) Charlie Makowski and Bill Hauck are hard at work on their math while Lori Slomba seems to find the class amusing. (4) A geometrical view of Leslie Sturgess.

(2) All scientific knowledge is advanced 100 years by Mike Mallos, Karen Pugh and Karen Vann Dyke, who have jointly discovered the secret to perfect chicken soup—2 minutes over the bunsen burner. (3) Paul Hoberling and Chris Kehoe—one instant before mixing the wrong chemicals—then a blinding flash and total destruction of the chemistry lab! (I hope they have a piece of the rock!) (4) Debbie Carr and Mr. Gasiorowski's environmental science class testify to the growing interest in nature and soon will be faced with a new bumper sticker slogan; instead of "Black is Beautiful," "Green is Gorgeous!" ## Social Studies

From knowing how the United States court system functions to who won the presidency in 1848 is a part of our knowledge of our heritage. Atlas (1) (James Raptis) shoulders the problems of the world as his adoring followers anxiously await his words. (2) Charlotte Greene shows her world history class her pet rock, but would not reveal it's name. (3) Here, clustered around a board of chance are Claudia Klemet, Karen Pugh, John Richards, Carol Bertolino, Frank Ditri, and Barb Lenihan.

Social Studies

A major step (1) towards our country's independence was the American Revolution. Mr. Nash lectures to a U.S. History class about this interesting subject. (2) In Mr. Bush's Development of American Society class, Kevin Sherwood gives an oration on the values and morals of people in common environments. As a psycholological experiment, (3) Tim White searches for imaginary bumps on Peter Egigian's head. Supposedly, this was a method of revealing personality traits in certain past civilizations.

Language

Here at Kimball, many foreign languages are offered to students who wish to expand their knowledge of other cultures. Spanish, French, and German are taught, as well as Latin, which is back on a trial basis. During the year, the students participate in plays, skits, and songs of their studied country. Many of them take a foreign language to fulfill college requirements, others take it just for fun. Outside of school, the foreign language members participate in dinners and other various trips to help get them acquainted with the lifestyles of other countries. Dedicated members can join the Foreign Language Club which holds special meetings, and has been the sponsor of the ever-popular French Club Dance.

Language

Mrs. Sarco (1) blurts out the punch line as the entire class laughs at her attempt of Spanish humor. Incidentally did you hear about the time...? (2) French can be a hard class, but, once in awhile, learning can be fun. Demonstrating their agility by performing the typically French can-can dance are: (1 to r) John Iles, Regina Jewell, Rob St. Amadol, Cheryl Berry, Dan Renou, Denise Rioux, David Flore, Maureen McCurdy and Craig Mitchell. (3) Right here is the center of France's wine industry, Craig Mitchell explains to the class. First year (4) French is obviously an engrossing class. At least Maureen McCurdy finds French interesting and can't wait to read more from the book.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts classes provide a broad range of applied skills that will aide students in making their final decision of a career. (1) Chris Nagy (left) and Brian Nolan skillfully work on forging metal in their shop class (2) In Advanced Graphics Bill Weed operates a printing press with accuracy. This is essential in completing assignments on time. (3) Norman Rogers portrays a surrealistic welder in his Industrial Arts class. (4) Mr. Zientek shows his machine drafting students; (l to r) Eric Ward, Dave Ferns, Eric Wold, Jim Cook and Kirk Tapner, an important point on the blueprint. (5) With care and patience while operating the lathe, Ken Masta can be sure of producing a fine candlestick.

(3) Mr. Barth and Mr. Davis check and go over each piece of machinery to make sure they are all in proper working order. (4) Part of becoming an expert in metals is learning how everything works. Here, Frank Dawley and Eric Purgaric learn the uses of the lathe.

Art

Many people think Art is an easy subject, but not everyone has the ability. It takes a person with a natural gift of creativity (1) Painting requires a great amount of thought as Julie Jakobowski shows while she concentrates on her subject. (2) This form of art is called "Still Life". It is a model for students to imitate. (3) The basic learning of Industrial Arts is drawing blueprints. Dave Sicheneder displays his work for the class to see. (4) Jewelry Shop is always an enjoyable class. Part of every project is the use of the jewelry machine. Demonstrating its use are Keith Cousineau, Dennis Miller and Tom Descamps. (5) Sketching rough drafts is the first part in planning a project, as Ervin Zachman (left) demonstrates. Then comes the work on the project as Bill Campbell puts on the finishing touches.

Art

Ms. Holdrieth (1) points out the characteristics of a Kosher pickle to Rae Trojan. Rae does not seem to be impressed by this information; she would rather get to her color scheme.

(2) Nanci Greene enjoys spending her art class lighting up Alan Stachke's life. Their creative ability is usually exemplified in a very different manner. (3) Melina Derderian adds to her priceless collection of jewels. Jewelry making is a class which puts the students creative ability to a more practical use. (4) Mr. Mangiaracina and Margaret Burke demonstrate to Donna Hadenburg how to split a metal rod into symmetrical pieces. Allison Molnar (5) is busy at work sculpting her latest creation. This is one of the various activities that students will encounter in Art 1 and 2 during the year.

Home Economics

Practice makes (1) perfect is a common line. But there is a lot of truth in it. Anne Davenport concentrates on ironing out all the wrinkles from her garment. (2) Sewing is very beneficial to one's domestic needs. Kathy Dillon concentrates on constructing a garment. (3) To some people the statement, "Reading is fundamental" is totally ridiculous. Karen Larson and Linda Bartaloni have obviously found the secret. Amy Stewart (4) studies for her Doctor Doolittle degree in child development as she concentrates on the language book Animals Talk To Me.

Physical Education

Physical Education is the only class which develops the body instead of the mind. This class gives students a chance to let themselves go and have some fun along with learning the basic skills of many athletic events. (1) Basketball is one sport that almost all students enjoy playing. Dale Stewart, Todd Gazette, Martin Drury, Dave Elliot, and Bill Ward have some fun in an action packed game. (2) Mr. Weber believes that weight lifting builds strong bodies. He demonstrates this with the next best thing to a dumbbell, John Kimball. (3) Volleyball involves speed, accuracy, agility, and strength as well as being an enjoyable game. Sarah Nicholson prepares herself for a whopping return.

Business Education

To be a sales person for the Exit Ramp, a certain amount of training is needed. Working with the public is not always easy. Through his time and experience, Mr. Majer has accumulated much knowledge of the business field. He shares this with his students, in a manner which is easily learned. (1) Being shown how to operate a cash register properly, are (l to r) Sue Phillips, Tim Roe and Mark Danderand. The school's Exit Ramp serves a dual purpose; it not only provides the school with candy and supplies, but it also enables the students to obtain experience, through on-the-job training.

Business

Business

For many students (1) who wish to go into a field of business, it is wise decision to take General Office Lab while in high school. Laura O'Neil demonstrates the use of a "dictaphone", a device used to help future secretaries learn to take dictation. Accounting (2) 3 & 4 teaches students to use numbers, (l to r) Sharon Alexander, Troy Gazzette, Brent Campbell, Karen Leeper and Bob Sutherland help to balance an equation. To complete (3) a course in typing certain assignments are to be fulfilled. Joy Hilzinger reads up on her new typing concept: Boxed Tabulation. The able bodied A.V. men stand poised in the doorway, ready to dash to the aid of any teacher in distress whose movie projector suffers a malfunction. Bravo to the A.V. team! (2) Everyday the library flings open its doors to students from all walks of life and invites them to feast their brains on all this intellectual food for thought. Dana Gammon helps Linda Snell take advantage of this opportunity by checking out materials which will increase her I.Q. Mrs. Partridge (3) and Mrs. Scarafino keep the library traveling its tried and true path of smoothness from day to day. Taking (1) a refreshing, early morning walk to her first classes, Shelli Bergeron absorbs a few minutes of peace. (3) Pep rallies are given to help the football players get ready for the exciting Kimball-Dondero football game, and to arouse the interest of the student body. (4) The Kimball Library is a very important part of our school, and many students make good use of it. Jim Welch and Ann McHugh browse through the shelves of books. (5) Mr. Wall's World Geography class listens intently to his lesson for the day.

Candidly Speaking

(1) On a nice day, many students can be seen sitting along the wall next to the circle driveway. As the school empties, however, only a few remain—thus completing another school day.

(2) Commercial Art teacher Mr. George Miklia explains to

Seniors

Our seniors are a very special group of people. It seems like during their last year of high school they are usually happy and enjoying themselves.

However, they are suddenly hit with the realization that this is their last chance to have a good time.

Their next step will plunge them into an adult world.

Their world is changing, and they must change with it. Their time at Kimball was more than just a simple episode of their life.

Our seniors will leave with a permanent memory of cherished events and exciting occurrences that are once-in-a-lifetime happenings. The sadness that one of their lives is ending is overshadowed by the excitement of beginning a new life—their future. Our seniors are at the peak of their lives, when their capabilities and future goals can be fully realized. (1) Kathy Dutton; (2) Chris Bouda; (3) Jeff Lowe; (4) Maggie Tomich.

Senior Officers

Being a Senior Class officer is a tremendous job. It involves a lot of effort and time. Our officers are hard working individuals who made our Senior year the very best possible. Along with those Seniors, there is Ms. Cornell. She contributed her time to guide them in the decisions of class activities. All of them working together spelled a super year for the Class of '79. Our Senior Officers are: (1) Bob Stoick, vice president. He helped make decisions, and saw that they are carried through. Mary Beth Budzinski, (2) class secretary. Typing News letters and keeping records of events, kept her on her toes. (3) Dan Patterson, class president. The final word rested with Dan, who led the Seniors with perfection. (4) Dave Sicheneder, class treasurer. He was the money-man who was concerned with the financial aspects of the Seniors.

You're Our Favorite, J.P.!

The Senior Class is very proud to dedicate the 1979 Lancer to Mr. James Patrick. He graduated from Western Michigan University, and in his eight years at Kimball has taught various business classes including Typing, Distributive Education, and Business Law. In addition, he is coach of girl's track, co-sponsor of the Varsity Club, and supervisor of open swim and the intramural basketball program. J.P. is definitely one of the most well-liked and admired teachers at Kimball, and was chosen by the Seniors as a chaperone for the Senior Trip. Because of his great sense of humor and congeniality, students are able to relate with him very easily.

Senior Classes

Classes taken in your senior year mark the accumulation of much hard work. Since your freshman days you have pushed to get this far, now it's time to face the world. High school classes have prepared you to stand up under duress to choose a profession, or to raise a family. Your senior classes will hold memories of some of the toughest struggles in your life. Monica Brandt, MaryBeth Budzinski and Mary Fisher watch the film that critics the world over are raving about, the Spanish version of: "Curious George goes to the Hospital". Judge Rich McConnell (2) turns his solemn gaze on the plaintiff, Missy Butsch, as she takes the oath from Cherry Schwarz. Lisa Thiel (3) converses with Bill Stoick on an advanced algebra problem. Jay Rees (4) imitates Mr. Perry as he stresses a vital, governmental idea. (5) Karen Leeper mentally runs over her main points as she prepares to give an in depth answer to Mr. Light's question regarding governmental procedures.

Julie Winowiecki

Senior Classes

During (1) Mr. Schmidt's 5th hour Physics class, Mahar Rabah proves that Newton's second law of motion is perfectly plausible.

Chuck Roll (2), Beth Hall, Debbie Lemothe, Carol Ritchie, Tom Kammer, Jeff Moore and Craig Schwartz have a gesprachogruppe over current events in German IV. (3) Debbie Keragis carefully examines a microscopic paramecium in Mr. Hansen's biology class.

Let (4) the spirit move you! Mrs. Bennett's novel class has been graced with the most technically advanced anti-cheating equipment know to mankind. Mrs. Bennett as a result, forever and anon the sly offences of Megan Bernadic, John Shell are destined to echo always through the Kimball archives of time.

Kimball's halls were filled with many surprises on October 31, 1978, which was the annual 'Senior Dress-Up Day'. (2) Rick Rhoads, posing as a groupie, spent much time following Bowie, Mary Liggett. "We're off to see the wizard, the wonderful Wizard of Oz!" These characters (3), straight from the land of Oz, visited for a day: The scarecrow (Michele Butsch), Dorothy (Kathy Dutton), The good witch of the North (Lisa Kolehmainen), The cowardly lion (Barb Rhoades), The Tinman (Lynn Gregory), and the Wicked Witch of the West (Dawn Malsberger). ## Mock Elections

Mock elections dramatize characteristics of human nature. Each year the Seniors cast ballots to decide which members of their class are to be awarded the "prestigious" honors. Some were selected for their sunny smiles, beautiful bodies, and super smarts; others because they have made Kimball proud by demonstrating their leadership, athletic and musical abilities, and some simply because they brightened our days by being the lives of the parties and the clowns of the classroom. The Seniors chose to illustrate their awards with a circus theme which shows what a fun-loving group they are.

Costume Day brought out a number of unique and unusual freaks (sounds like our seniors). Despite a layer of gruesome make-up, Marilyn Weir (1) appears to be enjoying herself. (2) Ray Lang's patchwork costume definitely looks like a homemade job (who would pay for a get-up like that?). Senior Larry Rowe gives an extra pull (3) in the tug-of-war event at a pep rally. Amy Ronayne (4) stepped out and boogied all night long at the dance marathon. Becky Spurlock and Teresa Spaulding do a quickie TP job (5) on some poor soul. A photographer's fish-eyed view (6) adds another dimension to the school's front. We have all trod down this sidewalk (7) countless times as yet another day of school begins. Ken Johnson shows his skateboarding expertise (8) at a pep rally. The glass hall is the place for card games as Linda Gibson (9) cuts the deck for Ed Lovins. The Senior Honors Convocation ceremony (10) recognizes gifted graduates. As this poster (11) clearly shows, the student body celebrated another important event: Mickey Mouse's 50th birthday.

In Focus, Candidly

Caught in the act! (1) Andrea Fortier smiles as she counts the loot which will pay for a very impromptu trip to anywhere south of the border. (2) No! How could you even think of such a thing? Of course Linda Austin isn't conducting her social affairs over the phone. In reality she is easing the burden on the regular office secretaries by taking her turn at the switchboard. Noche de paz, (3) noche de amor, todo duerme en rededor ... Judy Laverdiere, Sue Rowe, Ann Malinasky, Carol Bertilino and JoAnne Ingoglia sing out carols in the corridors- spreading the cheer of a Spanish Christmas. (4) Boogie down! Lisa Wade was really hot the night of the dance marathon, movin' her feet to the beat to earn those sweet, sweet, bucks for the City of Hope Charity Hospital.

Shuttered Bugs

Terry Boshears (1) demonstrates her expertise as a gymnast on the balance beam by doing the splits.

Not every student is able to perform like this! (2) It may seem like day during those exciting football games but it really is night time. Win or lose it's always a beautiful sight.

Lovable (3) Raggedy Ann and Andy (Cherle Mathis and Dan Patterson) came to life for all to see. It is true that they smile all the time, and oh how huggable!

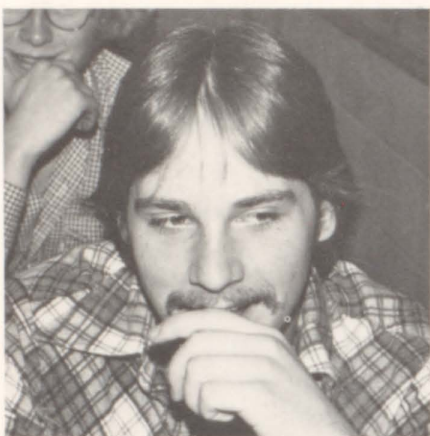

A couple (4) of cozy cuddlers, Gina Briggs and Jim Seery, are perfectly happy to sit in a stairwell just so they can be together. (5) Bill Campbell, Gina Alessandri and Julie Jakobowski get ready for Christmas in advance; after all what would Christmas be without a giant Santa? Well don't worry, Jolly old St. Nicholas will be there!

Cheerleading (6) Isn't all jumping and cheering. They need money too! Hardworking girls are trying to earn money by a carwash. It looks like their effort is a success.

It looks like their effort is a success.

Creating a yearbook involves much imagination, time, and patience. Knowing that it will be enjoyed for years to come, however, makes everything worthwhile. I'd like to express my thanks to the entire staff for their hard work, and to our sponsor Mr. I. Rosen, without whom nothing would have been possible. In addition, Jan Smith, Yearbook Coordinator, and Bill Williams photographers Ted Arlt, Jerry Isner, Mike Domman, Mark Bishop, Steve Lata, Jack Lewis, and Earl Foster are all appreciated for their contributions. Also, Kim Rider and Mrs. Lorraine Suprunowicz of Modern Yearbook Company, and our many sponsors are thanked. Most importantly, thank YOU, the students, for your support—this is your book. I'd like to wish the Class of '79 much success, love, and happiness.
