During an American Literature class, which studies famous American novels and their authors, Mrs. Greco and Sharon Smith share a smile.

LANGUAGE ARTS

The Language Arts department helps provide students with a thorough understanding of our language and many others. Students spend a lot of time throughout their high school careers reading novels and studying for grammar tests in order to receive respectable grades and fulfill graduation requirements. Lectures, homework, and tests help students to completely understand a variety of basic language concepts. To become successful in any class within the Language Arts Department requires a lot of concentration and hard work. Mr. Norsworthy (1) lectures on a variety of aspects of the German language while students listen. The German class consists of (l to r): Darci Vorhes, Sheri Simmons, Paul Zimmerman, Tom Hogopian, Mark Smith, Sharon Yockey, and Jenny Hargreaves. Alicia Zeitz (2) takes a short break during her English class to smile at the teacher. Tom Mackay (3) happily takes time out from his boredom to smile at the photographer during a lecture in his English class. Dottie Levins (4) smiles as she reads a humorous portion of a book for an English assignment. Jim Hames (5) would rather complete his Language Arts assignment in the glass hall instead of within the four walls of a classroom. Joe Griffin asks a question of Mr. Docks (6) in order to improve his reading skills.

Heather Rivard and Julie McPherson study their French together as Melissa Ritter, a smiling friend, reads the story to an amused class.

Language Arts includes foreign languages as well as English. The many types of classes include the required English courses for Freshmen and Sophomores as well as honors English. Oral Communications, American Studies and American literature are three of the courses offered to juniors. An English requirement is not needed for senior year but courses are offered. Journalism is offered to sophomores with a recommendation. Developmental reading and honors speech are some of the other courses offered at Kimball High School. Scott Kemp (1) hurries to finish his English homework before his next class. After all who wants homework on the weekends? Mr. Elicker (2) has some fun beating some sense into Dave Phillips. Although Dave now wishes he had completed his assignment. Aileen Fredruck (3) listens attentively to Miss Fell's English Assignment as Jim Coswell tries to get in on the picture while John Gilbert laughs at his silliness. In Oral Communications (4) Kara Banish, John Layton, Bill Tomich and Jenny Trojan wrap up their class discussion on violence. The research must have kept Kara up all night for she appears to be quite sleepy. Mark Patton (5) has found that high school is harder than he thought it would be. He doesn't even have time to smile before his assignment is due. Tom Higgins (6) laughs at a joke cracked by a friend. Lisa Klein (7) an avid Wolverine fan, takes time out of her busy day to smile for Mr. Rosen. English can be fun and exciting.

Ben Ulman and Brian Grow get some assistance from Mr. Walsh in their English class. Mr. Walsh only looks mean and fierce, but his students know better.

English, the most used language in the world, is taught at Kimball High School everyday. Here students learn to punctuate correctly, write essays and research papers and also do informative speeches. A student at Kimball learns to read plays and poetry. They will learn to compose and write their own ideas, which will come alive on paper. Greg Miejski (1), Nikki Cassani, and Lisa Giordano and John Crowe work with open books and open minds. Stacey Bracht (2) practices her German while Alexis Burrier takes a break from her studies. German is being taken by Alexis because she may need it in the future. Barb Stein (3) smiles as she completes her assignment. This smile is very common of Barb. Jadeen Soo (4) assists her friend Wendy Wade with her English assignment. Helping others is a favorite pastime of Kimball High. Julie Burry (5) and Tracie Burry share their homework with each other. Don Stacey (6) helps to decorate Mr. Elicker's room, Language Arts, which includes foreign languages as well as English are very exciting subjects. English is a language needed by all whether you become an accountant or an English teacher. A foreign language may also be needed. Bilingual students are generally in demand because a business often deals with foreign companies. Many colleges only accept students with at least one year of a foreign language. The languages offered here at Kimball are German, French and Spanish. English and foreign language teachers at Kimball deserve a round of applause for teaching the students what they might need to know.

MATH . . . MATH

Math class is basically meant for Freshmen, because it does only require one year, but students of each grade were often found in it. Algebra is normally a Freshman class, but many Sophomores, Juniors, and even Seniors are found in the class. Many students wait until later years to take their Math class, but usually it is best to take your Math class as soon as possible, so you can go on and take other Academic classes in your later years. One of our teachers, Mr. Dalley, feels that a student should take all four years of High School, even if they don't plan on going to college. Even just for the experience, you should take all four years, and of course if you do go on to college, a minimum of two years is required. He also goes on to say that Math is good experience if you go on to jobs like engineering or computers. But Math is a very abstract subject that you do have to study at, if you want to fully understand it, (1) Amy Bauerle, a freshman, takes time out of Algebra homework to give our cameraman a smile. (2) Ken Zook looks real enthusiastic about reading another problem from his Algebra book. (3) Darcia Vorhes reads over an assignment in her Algebra class. (4) Mary Murphy tries to explain to Jeff Gerwin, Mike Greening, Chris Sarris, and Duane Payne how to work a computer in their Computer/Science class. But it does look like Duane enthusiastic about it. (5) Kelly Herbert battles it out with her computer in Computer Science, but Kelly looks like she's won.

Kristin Drager tries to get her way through explaining how these triangles are congruent in her Geometry class.

Kimball High School offers many varieties of Mathematics to fit every student's need and to fit his or her ability level. Just a few of our Mathematics classes are: Algebra with Mr. Zulch, Geometry with Mr. Briercheck, Senior Math with Mr. Pedrick, General Math, Extended Algebra with Mr. Clark, Basic Math, and Advanced Algebra with Mr. Foster or many other fine Mathematics teachers. Kimball High School requires that each student take at least one year of Math, but many students go on to take two or more years of Math to prepare themselves for college. Some colleges require at least three years of Math. But not only to go to college will you need your Math skills. You will use your Math skills in whatever you do in life, even if you decide not to go on to a career. You will use Math in your everyday life, from balancing checkbooks, to figuring out how much your grocery bill is going to be. But if you do go on to a career, like into computers, you will most definitely need your Math skills. The computer age is growing rapidly and a need for experienced students is great, but it also requires that you do have a certain amount of Math from High School. There will be a great need for people with a high aptitude for mathematics and other Math skills. But math will always come in handy no matter what. Here are some students who find math very handy. (1) John Fallon and Karen Kotila share some math problems and answers in their Algebra class. (2) Patty Tucker and Chris Fredruck show you that sharing things with friends, even your Algebra homework, can be a lot of fun and you learn a lot at the same time! (3) Lisa Farrell, who is not a Junior, but a Senior, shows that she is working very hard at her Algebra homework, but of course, with a smile on her face. (4) Mike VanWinkle reads his homework out loud from his book, to a very attentive Geometry Class.

SCIENCE

This year the Science Department offered a variety of courses ranging from the Basics to the very advanced. Students are required to take at least one year of science to graduate; however, most students decide to take more than that for college. From Physical Science to Advanced Chemistry, the student has an opportunity to explore the varied and exciting world of Science. Experiments are also performed in each class to demonstrate each theory or concept as it comes along in the text book. (1) Senior Veronica Atto takes a swim in Mr. Herrington's fishtank as the skeleton looks on in the background. Veronica is actually checking to see that the temperature in the tank is all right for the fish to live in. (2) No, he isn't baking a cake. Dan Yarborough is just stirring a solution in his Chemistry class. (3) Rachael Hyde, a Senior, reads through her Advanced Chemistry book. Advanced Chem is as far as you can go in terms of Science, and Mr. Heald teaches this class. (4) David Campbell and Beth Lawrence demonstrate the "Electrolysis of Water" experiment in Mr. Myers' Chemistry class. In this laboratory experiment the water is separated into its two parts, oxygen and hydrogen, by passing an electric current through it. (5) Senior Dave Shaw does his best to keep up with Mr. Schmidt as he gives another one of his complicated but interesting lectures in Physics.

Several Science courses were offered this year, each one getting harder as you go down the line. The classes: Life Science, Physical Science, Environmental Science, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Advanced Chemistry. Our reputable science teachers this year are: Mr. Poznick, Mr. Gasiorowski, Mr. Hansen, Mr. Herrington, Mr. Schmidt, Mr. Heald, and Mr. Myers. (1) The "teacher's pets" feed the teachers' pets. In reality, however, that's sophomore Sheryl Forston (left) and her friend Lisa Axsom giving the fish a little more food in Mr. Gasiorowski's Environmental Science class. (2) Brian Jesky dictates and Kim Roy takes notes as they study a section of a tree. (3) Paul Marvar, a senior, does some quick figuring so he can answer a question in Mr. Heald's Advanced Chemistry class. (4) Todd Ellis, Eugenie Madden and Maryann Pappas examine parts of an onion under a high power microscope in Biology class. (5) Junior Tanya Anandan smiles as she begins to understand a tough problem in her Chemistry class. (6) Mr. John Myers tries to explain the strange appearance of the phrase "Tom the cow eats moss" to a group of bewildered chemistry students. Actually, Mr. Myers is giving a lecture explaining the purpose of the "Electrolysis of Water" experiment. Aside from being a fun topic to study because of the exciting experiments, science is important to help you understand the world around you.

OFFICE HELPERS

The people who help in the main office and Student Service Center help to make each day easier and more enjoyable for the parents, students, and faculty of Kimball. In the Student Service Center helpful workers make and change schedules, give permits to enter or leave, do all the paperwork that is involved in out attendance policy, and the main office make those important P. A. announcements, handles parking permit applications, and are helpful in giving out information. (1) Mrs. Millie Fry, the telephone operator, finds time to do other errands because of the new dialing system. (2) Mrs. Laureen Aldridge handles all the data processing for the school. (3) Mrs. Florrie Martin, a secretary in the Student Service Center, takes care of all the OPSCAN attendance sheets which are handed in by teachers on Fridays. (4) Mrs. Lee MacKay shows a sunny smile as she looks at the students in the Student Service Center. (5) The bookkeeper here at Kimball is Mrs. Lillian Von Rusten. She handles all the internal accounts of the school. (6) Mr. Stephan's secretary, Mrs. Betty McEntee, is looking up student records. (7) Mrs. Carol Craig is working on student scheduling with concentration. (8) Mrs. Blanche Kozlowski is the secretary to Mr. Armstrong, who is the Assistant Vice-Principal here at Kimball. (9) The counseling secretary is Ms. Kathleen Gignilliat and she can be found in the Student Service Center. (10) Mrs. Dorothy Guilmet works in the main office as Mr. Neville's secretary.

Mr. Ashley makes learning fun by playing mind games with his class, which his students obviously enjoy.

Social Studies covers a wide range of subjects, from four different World History courses to a multitude of others. Geography, Psychology, Team Government, and American Studies, English and History, are a few of the favorites. Most students enjoy a large number of varied topics to choose from to get their three years of Social Studies credit. Social Studies is mainly a course to teach students about the heritage of their country and the history of other countries around the world. (1) Mr. Nash helps Debbie Bromley average her grade. Most likely she wants her mother to be prepared for any possibility. (2) Lisa Mistzrak, Hannan Haji, Erin Penny, Deneane Jordan, and Renee Hopkins listen to a guest speaker, a representative of the Democratic Party in Mr. Light's Team Government class. (3) Stacey Loprette demonstrates her map reading skills by pointing out the tiny island of Granada just after the U. S. troops invaded it. Map reading is another one of the important skills taught in Social Studies classes. (4) Mike Coyne smiles as he slyly sneaks a peek at a friend's answers during an open book test in Mr. Stange's history class. (5) Senior Dan Donolin strives to keep up with the teacher during a lecture in his Psychology class. Eileen Kotila, however, looks over his shoulder to find the page number. (6) Sophomore Dianne Macks laughs aloud at a joke told to her by a classmate in Mr. Borowski's World History class. Ah, if only history was always this much fun.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Paul Nesbitt lies back and relaxes, after completing an important assignment for Mr. Wall.

Social Studies covers many areas of History, such as World History. You learn about America's great past. You learn of the great many wars, from the first Revolution to the Second World War. Many of our prominent leaders are in the history books, too, such as George Washington and Benjamin Franklin. History explains what each of them did for our country. But Social Studies also covers the human behavior in such classes as Psychology. There are even classes that study the behavior of children, like Child Development. You learn how to teach children between right and wrong. The class teaches you what toys are safe for children and those that are not. A course that explores life after high school is called Adult Living. This class prepares you for the "outside world", so you can understand marriage and how to cope with having a job and children at the same time. The requirements for graduation are three years of any Social Studies class which includes a half semester of a Government class. Some of our Social Studies teachers are Mr. Borowski, Mr. Wall, Mrs. Estep, Mr. Bush, Mr. Ashley, Mr. Nash, and many others. Each teacher tries to help each student out as best as he can. If a student needs extra help, the teacher is more than willingly to help him out, even if he has to take some time out of class to do it. The students are more than appreciative of the time that our teachers dedicate to them. (1) Michelle Poliski tries to look very enthusiastic about Mr. Bush's Futuristic class, but she should try and get the example from her friend Deon Clark. (2) Mr. Ashley tries to teach Kathy Barber, David Stay, Anna Consiglio, Becky Curie, and Dianne Peters how to play the interesting psychological game with the title of "Man and Woman". But it seems that Lynn Jahn, Kelly Mcdermott, Tina Theodore, and Annette Thinel find their own little game very amusing. (3) Mike Simpson seems to find an article in his Futuristic class rather funny. Better not let anyone watch you! (4) Chris Lovelock takes precious time out of his World History class, with Mr. Borowski, to look at a photographer.

Physical Education

Physical Education is one of the many important classes offered here at Kimball High School. Physical Education, or better known as gym, is a time of the day when the students can practice their skill coordination. There are many different classes provided here such as baseball, softball, football, volleyball, basketball, floor hockey, swimming classes, track, aerobic classes, and time to work out in the Kimball weight training room. Gym is a time of the day to rid of all the extra energy students may have from sitting in the classroom most of the day. Many of the students think of gym as a break from their academic schedule. Students are now only required to take one year of Physical Education to meet the graduation requirements. For the students who do wish to continue on in the gym classes there are special classes that concentrate on one specific sport. Gym is a good way to keep your body in shape and get the daily exercise everybody should have. The main goal of Physical Education is to develop good exercise habits that will last a lifetime and to encourage good relations with other teammates. (1) Sophomore Rob Beesley, with a confident smile, proudly displays his jump-roping abilities to the rest of the class. (2) In the aerobic class, Kris McCarty and Laura Hansen show how dancing can be a fun and an effective way of exercising. (3) Freshman Cranford Nix is attempting to score more points for his team by hitting the volleyball over the net. (4) Senior Carrie Kellogg spends time in the Kimball weight training room in hopes of improving her strength and her muscle tone.

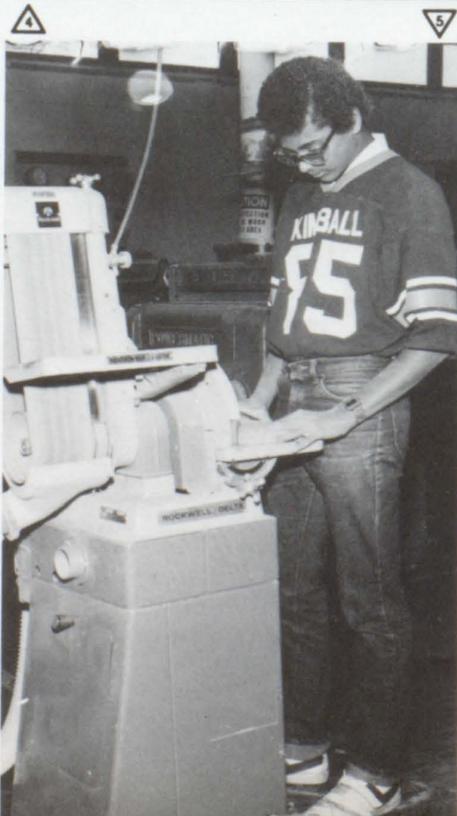

Renee Marsac smiles sweetly while putting the finishing touches on her clay vase during her Art Crafts class.

ARTS . . . ARTS

An art class can be a very inspiring part of a student's day. It gives the students an opportunity to develop their special skills and talents. Since different people are interested in different forms of art, there are a variety of classes that are available to choose from. For example, if a student was interested in drawing and painting, he or she could take Art 1, and then move on to Advanced Art. These are just a couple of the many classes available to take. Each class gives the students a chance to experiment with different art tools. Even if you are not a fantastic artist, an art class is fun to take. (1) During her Graphic Arts class, Beth Tillema, takes time out of her busy schedule to tape her drawing on the wall. She is making a design for a memo pad. After finishing a painting in his Art 1 class, (2) Jeff Galetti walks up to the counter to wait his turn before cleaning his paint-brush. An important aspect of an Art Crafts class is doing projects that are three-dimensional. (3) Todd Ellis stops his work for a few minutes to proudly display his partially finished clay vase. Painting a picture takes a lot of concentration and a steady hand. (4) Anna Consiglio displays both of these characteristics while she carefully puts the finishing touches on a stained-glass window in her Advanced Art class. (5) Jeff Lahtinen, Bruce Craig, and Carrie Kellogg were all busy in their Jewelry class preparing a mold for ring castings, when the photographer caught them all by surprise. In a Commercial Art class, you need a very creative mind to think of catchy sign designs. (6) Jim Poole shows his creativity by designing a bright sign advertising the Swedish Volvo.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Art classes available here at Kimball High School are very valuable to the students who take them. They not only give the students a break from their normal schoolwork, but they allow for them to use their skills in various ways. There are a variety of classes to choose from. For example, Mechanical Drawing, Architectural Drawing, Wood Shop, Metal Shop, Auto Mechanics, and many, many more. These different classes give the students an opportunity to work with many different tools and machines. Some students may even continue after school to go into a perspective job field. The experience gained during class time is invaluable to them. (1) While drawing a geometric construction in his Mechanical Drawing class, Senior Stephan Hoffman "bendt" the rules a little, and when the teacher wasn't looking, he put on his Walk-man so he could listen to a little music while finishing his work. Mechanical Drawing provides for the students to learn the fundamentals of technical communication. An important aspect of this is drafting reproduction. (2) Darrel Alton was so absorbed in his drafting work, that the photographer took him totally by surprise. Before starting a new draft, (3) Vernon Morehouse stops his work to smile sweetly at the camera. (4) After a formal presentation on the chalkboard, Mr. Zientek gives individual review to Mike Micelli, Jeff Johnson, Joe Johnson, and Mike Viviano on geometric construction problems in their Mechanical Drawing class. (5) Freshman Yassar Hassan is busy at work in his Woodshop class sanding a cutting board that he made, on a circular power sander. An Auto Maintenance course is designed for a student who wishes to learn the fundamentals of automotive operation and maintenance. The experience learned in this class can be used for personal use, or even as a job opportunity. (6) Scott Kitchen, Jeff Becker, and Andy Martin all work very hard in repairing a small motor engine.

Mary Ellen Murphy contemplates her weekend while reading her Applied Business Law book and unknowingly lets a smile slip out.

Business Education

Students at Kimball high school who are interested in pursuing a business career have no better place to begin than in one of the many business courses offered to them during their four years. There are classes for beginners such as exploratory typing and exploring business careers. For the more advanced business students classes such as advanced typing, shorthand, general office lab, accounting and dictation are among the choices available. Students enrolled in these classes are familiarized with general office techniques and they are also given the opportunity to work with machines that are present in modern offices today. Some students may take a typing class to learn the skill for typing personal letters or college essays. Kimball's business classes are also helping to produce the next generation of businessmen and businesswomen. Among us there are future accountants, secretaries and computer geniuses and you can bet that some of them are pictured right here in the next few pages of your yearbook. (1) Senior Natalie Masich appears to be writing a personal letter, but if you look closely you will notice she is actually taking shorthand in Mrs. Flynn's shorthand class (2) Junior Randy Bowman carefully prints some valued information onto the IBM Display Writer while in his general office lab class (3) Junior Sindy Langley cannot hide the fact that she loves typing, because even while erasing an error a sunny smile is kept on her face. (4) Future business accountant Allison Shore, wearing her Copenhagen hat and a lazy smile, tries to look enthused, but finds it difficult in her 5th hour accounting class. Mike Griffith, Pam Hashim and Emily Salmons, pictured in the background, eagerly wait for lunch. (5) Mr. Freeman, an experienced typer and an expert in the field, gives some friendly advice to Cheryl Tohaly, who listens very intently.

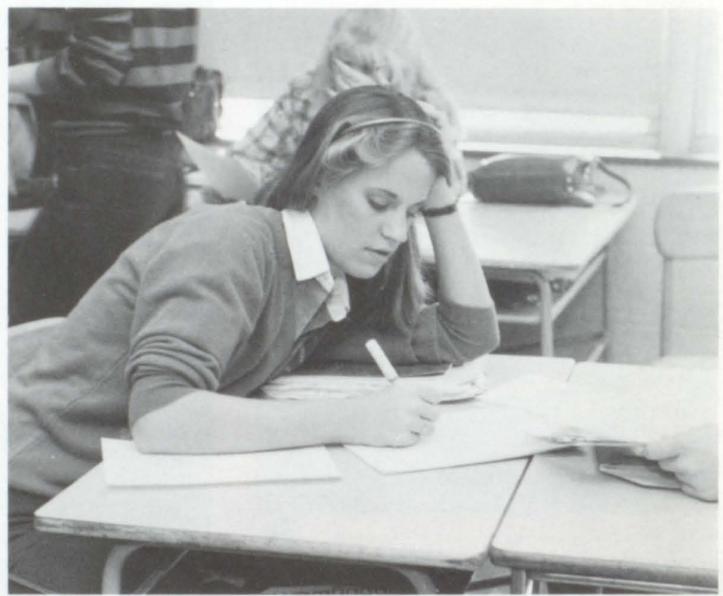

3

Dan Tillema, hoping to pursue a career in computers, busily types away on the CRT unit in the computer room and studies the results.

Senior Barb Adams (1) practices her shorthand by listening intently to Mrs. Flynn and taking dictation. Shorthand is an important skill to learn for students who are interested in pursuing a secretarial career. It can also be very helpful for those who have a difficult time taking notes during lecture classes. (2) Brad Watkins, dressed for the occasion in his backwards baseball cap, reads his informative accounting book. (Notice that Brad has on his rarely worn glasses to fully understand the contents of the book.) (3) Here senior Peggy Polidan shows us that figuring statistics takes a lot of concentration along with a little bit of frustration. She is figuring out some interesting facts through the use of statistics in Mr. Smith's accounting class fourth hour. (4) Junior Shannon Carter faithfully keeps her eyes on her book and her hands on the keys as she speedily types a paper for Mrs. Flynn which is due at the end of the hour. Typing is a skill which, like many other skills, must be practiced over and over before high speed and accuracy can be acquired. (5) Freshman Christine Hildebrandt, a new pioneer in the field of typing, tries to perfect the "one hand method" of typing, but it looks as though she is disappointed with her discovery that conventional ways are always best when faced with a keyboard. (6) For senior Daren Komosinski typing is a breeze, and if she happens to make any mistakes her shadow will be watching over her to catch them! To sum up, Kimball has an excellent choice of classes in the business department. The business teachers here are also excellent and they include Mr. Smith, Mrs. Flynn, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Schiehsl, Mr. Fleishman, and Mr. Meger just to name a few. All of these factors (good teachers, a variety of business classes, and the chance to practice skills) make up one of the best high school business departments around. You may not know this, but the Exit Ramp where you can buy paper, pens, pencils, and candy is run by the business department. The Exit Ramp is a very helpful place to go to for those days we urgently need some school supplies, it also gives students the chance to use a cash register and practice their business ability.

STUDENT ASSISTANTS

It takes a lot to make a school run properly. Life is made easier thanks to the help of the students in the Student Service Center and the office. They do a variety of different tasks which are very important to daily school life. Their jobs include filling out permits to enter and permits to leave, answering the endless line of phone calls on the switchboard, filing students absence slips, and typing out daily absence sheets. The Student Service Center is one of the most important parts of the school. If we did not have the office for counseling and attendance the school could not exist. (1) Sarah Hames manages to smile despite the fact that there are many students at the counter waiting to be helped. (2) Nancy Kemble spends a lot of time organizing the students' schedules into alphabetical order. (3) Kris Trew works in the Main Office on the switchboard, the calls are endless but somebody has to answer them. (4) Kelly Hebert is part of the Co-op in the Student Service Center. The workload is heavy but she always manages to get everything done. (5) Lisa Vanderkhoff works in the Main Office also. Most of her time is spent answering phone calls all day long. Whenever a problem or an emergency comes up for a student, the Student Service Center can provide helpful information. The people who work in the Student Service Center will try to solve a variety of problems and even call home when you are sick. Arranging counselors appointments and delivering passes are just a few of the tasks they deal with each day. The people who work in the offices at Kimball deserve a break - after all, they're just trying to help.

CO-OP

Many students choose to work on Co-Op during their senior year. This enables them to get paid for on-the-job experience, while also getting credit. Co-op also helps them in their preparation for a job after graduation. This is helpful, because the job market is very tough. Students attend three classes either in the morning or afternoon. (1) Working with precision, Bill Lynch assembles thermocouples during his job at George Instrument Company. (2) Tim Ardanowski concentrates on getting his engineer drafting and detailing done expertly. (3) While she works diligently at her job in the main office, Kris Trew is happiest at her typewriter. (4) A very dedicated senior, Kim Caughell shows off J. C. Penney's various selections of clothing. (5) Mike Fisher takes time out from his busy schedule of brazing thermocouples to flash a handsome smile.

DRIVERS ED

Drivers Ed. is made possible through the generous donations of Matthews-Hargreaves Chevrolet and Jim Fresard Pontiac Inc. Car maintenance is one of the many important things the teachers stress. Drivers Education is one class that most sophomores look forward to because a Driver's License gives people a certain amount of freedom. A bookwork class is mandatory before students are permitted to experience being out on the road. (1) A group of students gather around one of the many new cars donated to the school. (2) Heather Rivard, Kathy Peareson, and Mr. Schlottman get ready to enter their assigned vehicle. (3) Anne Marie Edwards and Mr. Poznick discuss some of the laws that they will review on that day. (4) Tim Conselyea and Dan Edwards examine the engine with Mr. Schlottman.

Candid Candids

As you roam the halls of Kimball, you take in many sights that you probably would not see anywhere else. There are those familiar faces of old friends from years gone by mixed with faces of people you have never met before. Meeting new people is one of the most important aspects of high school life. A lot of these new found friends become friends for life. High school is more than just learning and looking ahead to college or a job, it's a place where many good times occur. Things put into the category of "Memories." High School isn't always fun, but you never know how much fun it is until your four years of high school are over. Then you know how fun it really was. (1) Bill Thomas and Tammy Beesley are trying to hold back smiles while the photographer takes the picture. (2) Kim Weaver and Chris Dunn were making their daring attempt into the men's room when our photographer caught them. (3) Dan Donlin flashes one of his smiles as he watches the girls walk by. (4) Warren Williams sits in the glass hall drinking a slurpee, which he bought during one of his daily trips up to 7-Eleven. (5) Stephanie Goeckle, Yvonne Monet, and Mary Nahhat pose for this candid by hanging off the side of the stairs. (6) Rachael Hyde looks like she found a comfortable place in the lower glass hall to do her homework.

You could call these two pages "The Year in Sports" because these pictures represent various sports beginning in the Spring and ending in the Fall of 1983. Among them are pictures of Baseball, Girl's Track, Girl's Soccer, and Girl's Tennis, Golf, Football, Girl's Basketball, Boy's Soccer, and Girl's Swimming. Many of the students in these pictures are captains or future captains of their teams, but all are excellent with their talents. (1) One of the co-captains of the Girl's Basketball Team, Mary Murphy watches as her teammate Amy Pounds, a junior, shoots for a basket. (2) Thao Hoang cheers with excitement for the Girl's Soccer Team while Beth Simmons looks at the team roster. (3) Collette Comeau makes a small leap after hitting a high but solid return to her opponent. (4) Jeff Zryd watches the ball he just putt with extreme concentration hoping it will go in after his third stroke. (5) John Metsker, a senior and captain of the Boy's Soccer Team, tries to block the ball from the opposing team while Bastiaan Van Gils, a foreign exchange student, runs in to help. (6) Taking practice swings, Darren Genereau prepares to hit a homerun to bring in two teammates. (7) Terri Stout, captain of this years Girl's Track Team, looks determined to make a good jump as she eyes the pit and pumps her arms for extra speed. (8) Playing in the swimming pool before practice are (l to r); Shea Steel, Stacey Lo Prete, Lisa Wiegand, and Robin Sargent. (9) Halfback, Tom Leeper knows how to get around a crowd as you can see, in this game against Andover, by the way he carries the ball and avoids getting tackled.

POWDER PUFF

Powder Puff, though filled with controversy, will go down in the books as being an awesome victory for the Senior Class. The Junior Triumph and the Senior Slam made 1983 a memorable season.

6

The 1983 Powder Puff game proved just how superior the Seniors are. The Senior Slam devastated the Junior Triumph, by a score of 36-0. The outstanding players of the evening for the Slam were: Debbie Samson, who made three touchdowns, Tina Roberts with one, and Ann Ford, also with one touchdown. Chris Dunn and Amy Pounds gave an impressive performance for the Triumph. (1) The Seniors root their team on to victory, as they "Slam" the Juniors, who weren't as triumphant as their name may suggest. (2) Senior Mary Beth Schlau runs past Junior Sarah Wright. (3) Chris Dunn tip-toes down the sideline for the Triumph. (4) Senior Alice Tootikian attempts to make a catch. (5) The Junior Cheerleaders make a shaky pyramid: (Top to bottom) Mike Louden, Dan Hamson, Randy Houston, Art Staff, Todd Lane, and Mike Shruda. (6) (L to r) Mike Greening, a Senior Slam manager, Jeff Gerwin, Jim Bowman, Rick Bera, Dan Donlin, Armand Blanchette, Kurt Zeiger, Stephan "The Ghoul" Hoffman, and Bruce Roger, otherwise known as the "Goon Squad", converse as they take a break from one of their exotic cheers, while they model the current fashions. The 'White Slash' tee-shirts and minis show the best of their hairy legs.

▲ TWO BLIND MICE ▾

The 1983 court and their Queen pose for a picture: Pattie Craig, Theresa Piche, Laura Toth (Queen), Sue Kirkpatrick, and Mary Beth Schlau. Junior Mark Danhausen (4) puts all of his concentration into the half-time band performance. This year's King and his court (5) consisted of: John Maurice, Darren Genereau, Dave Vorhes (King), Dave Bishop, and Neil Morehouse. Laura Toth and Dave Vorhes (6) smile after being crowned at the dance, as the traditional homecoming picture is taken. Anne Kennedy, escorted by her father (7), joins the Homecoming Queen nominees on the football field during the half-time show. The successful night of homecoming activities is a memory that will stay with everyone for a long time, especially with those who participated. # DEBATE

The case supported by the affirmative team of the 1983-84 team was, should the United States allow hypnotically refreshed testimony in court?

Debate is a class where students gather information and make an opinion on a certain subject. They then present their opinions at competitions. This year the Debate Team has done very well. At State, which took place at the University of Michigan in early February, the team took third place. (1) Rebecca Hickling and Paul Carmouche bring a bit of humor to the class by becoming "boxheads" while doing research for a debate. They say they transform into these characters to bring comic relief to the serious subjects they discuss. (2) An important asset to the Debate Team is the file which Vicky Henry and Matt McMahon are looking at. (3) The Debate Team was victorious this year; as the trophies testify. (4) The Debate Team: back row (l to r) Julie Beamer, Pat Kelley, Brett Tillander, Kevin Landreth, and Sara Ogger, middle row Rob Bryant, Steve Hansen, and Matt McMahon, front row Sharon Russell, Steve Williams, Emily Salmons, Dayna Welch, Jennie Diemer, Nadia Dinno, Rebecca Hickling, Vickie Henry, Paul Carmouche, and Bill Ziegelmüller. (5) Steve Hansen, graduating at the top of his class, is shown here giving an informative speech. (6) Mrs. Greco, the advisor for the Debate and Forensics Teams, reads an article the team may use in a debate.

(2) Even though Forensics is a class on formal speaking, George Janes and Lynn Kribs decide to add some drama to the class and act out a scene from a play. (3) Brett Tillander is very happy to listen as Mrs. Greco tells about the types of speeches that will be given at competitions. (4) Mrs. Greco takes time out from teaching to talk to her students, Vickie Henry (standing) and Rebecca Hickling (sitting). (5) Vickie Henry points out a fact while talking to the class. (6) Lisa Tikkanen and Annessa Ball really seem to be getting involved in their work. Let's hope Lisa doesn't get too inspired!

SPIRIT WEEK

Spirit Week at Kimball is traditionally the week of the Kimball-Dondero football game. The students dress up according to the days indicated. The Kimball student body showed a lot of "SPIRIT".

This year Spirit Week consisted of Costume Day for the Seniors, and Dress-Up Day for the underclassmen to kick off the week. Slob Day, Sports Day, Sixties Day, and Blue and Gold Day completed Spirit Week. Many students took part in the variety of events. (1) Gunther Kenefic sports his Michigan State shirt. (2) Michelle Carver and Lisa Giordano are dressed as the Flower Children of the Sixties. (3) Shelley Bryson looks comfortable in the clothes that she is wearing for Slob Day. (4) Bonnie Landrum looks very at ease in her lovely outfit. (5) Lisa Cipponeri shows real Kimball spirit by wearing her basketball Uniform on Sports Day. (6) Yvonne Monet is absolutely stunning in her attire for Sports Day. (7) Missy Boisonneault, dressed as they did in the sixties, clowns around for a moment, with Mr. Freeman. These students are only a handful of the ones that participated in Spirit Week. The students had a lot of fun and the week was a huge success.

FIELD DAY

During last years Field Day the Seniors triumphed over the underclassman by winning most of the days events which were: the frisbee throw, egg toss, class song, three legged race, spoon pass and others.

Field day topped off Spirit Week with the feeling of competition and true school spirit in the air. The events took place during sixth and seventh hours in the gymnasium. The classes were represented by the colors of red for Seniors, blue for Juniors, green for Sophomores and yellow for Freshman. The winning class was determined by a point system based on which place they finished in each event. (1) Mike Williams, Nick O'Branovic and Dan Valko give it all they've got as they lead the Juniors in their class song. (2) Andy Pettit hurriedly eats White Castle hamburgers and leads the Sophomores to victory in the hamburger stuff again. (3) Chris Polly concentrates all her effort on doing her part as the Sophomores try to pull the Seniors to their defeat. (4) John Botens accompanies Carole Galli for the faculties song. (5) Andrea Herman, Julie Olson, Mary Sterling, Stu Wright and Mike Vieregge unravel themselves after an incredible attempt to win the event of the spoon pass. (6) Jeff Gerwin wraps Mary Beth Schlau as fast as he can in the toilet paper wrap contest. Field Day was a successful event planned and run by Roundtable to give students the opportunity to show their school spirit.

In the Spring of 1983 the Thespians presented the musical "Anything Goes" which is a story that takes place aboard a luxury, ocean liner bound for England. Billy Crocker has come to say goodbye to his friend, Reno Sweeny. However, when he sees Hope Harcourt, he decides to go along and try to break up her romance with the stuffy Englishman, Sir Evelyn. As a stow-away, he is joined by Moonface Martin, Public Enemy Number 13, and his girlfriend, Bonnie. Along with Reno, they try to help Billy win Hope's love, and try to avoid being caught and arrested themselves. This involves a series of disguises, mistaken identities, and outrageous behavior. (1) Rachel Hyde, Aileen Fedruk, Julie Beamer, Matt Parmenter, Scott Paddy, and John Parmenter wave Bon Voyage along with the rest of the chorus members. (2) Bonnie (Deneane Jorden) and three of the Angles (Colette Comeau, LeeAnn MacKay and Rachel Hyde sing and dance to Heaven Hop. (3) Sir Evelyn (Tim Wolfe), Reno Sweeny (Kara Ehrle), and Moonface Martin (Rob Scott) performing in a scene in Sir Evelyn's room. (4) The Captain (Mike Russell) escorts Mrs. Harcourt (Leslie Harpold) about the ship. (5) Reno tries to lure Sir Evelyn away from Hope. (6) Billy Crocker (Rob McMillan) and Hope Harcourt (Missy Gilbert) sing "All Through the Night".

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Bastiaan Van Gils and Kirsten Heilmann are two of the nicest people you could meet.

This year at Kimball we were very privileged to have two foreign exchange students. Bastiaan Van Gils, a young man staying with Brad Storck and his family, is from a town in the Netherlands. Kirsten Heilmann, who is from Germany, is staying with Heather Gilbert. (1) As the sun comes out from behind a cloud, Bastiaan squints to see the board. (2) Shown here consulting Kirsten, Bastiaan can't help but laugh as he hears a joke about himself. (3) Bastiaan, pictured here in the library, is decked out in all of his Kimball garb, which includes a Soccer Team Jersey, Kimball hat and pin. Bastiaan is also a member of Roundtable. (4) Kirsten, who is from the small town of Preetz, Germany, checks out a book from the library. To quote Kirsten, "We don't have any fun at all in Germany", which hopefully is not the case here in America. (5) One of the many things Kirsten likes to do in America is sewing, which she is obviously very good at. (6) Bastiaan works a math problem on the board in Mr. Fosters class. (7) Bastiin takes time out to pose with math teacher Mr. Foster during a class.

Since Kimball High School opened in 1957, there have been many teachers who have come and gone. This year, five very special people are leaving. These five teachers have given their time, care, and experience to thousands of students over the past thirty years. (1) Mr. Peter Mangiaracina, affectionately known by all his students as "Mr. Mann", has been teaching art for the past thirty-one years in the Royal Oak School District. (2) Miss Joanne Less has been teaching for thirty-two years in Royal Oak. According to her, teaching is "a worthwhile endeavor," and she certainly must think so after all of the devoted work she has contributed to the English department during the years. (3) Mr. Charles Mueller started teaching thirty-four years ago as an Industrial Arts teacher in Royal Oak. He now works with the Co-op students and says he enjoys seeing his students go from co-op jobs to worthwhile jobs after graduation. (4) Mr. Paul Temerian has been serving in the Royal Oak School District for the past thirty-four years as a physical education teacher and a varsity football coach. He has been the head coach of the varsity football team since 1965, has won ten SMA championships, and has never had a losing season. (5) Mrs. Jane Mann has been teaching for twenty-one years. Sixteen of these years were spent at Kimball teaching Home Economics.

▼6

The Lancer class is made up of juniors and seniors who meet an hour a day and even after school to work on and put together a yearbook for the staff and students at Kimball High school. The staff works very hard to put together the best yearbook they can at Kimball. A lot of planning and hard work goes into it, such as planning out the pages and deciding what should be on them, picking out pictures and making them fit the page, thinking of what to write and then typing it and most of all meeting deadlines. The job of editor (Theresa Dreist) is not an easy one; she must pick a publishing company and find out when the deadlines are and help the students in the class. Being ad manager (Amy Marino) is another job which isn't always very easy; she must keep track of ads and send bills to the different companies. The advisor of the staff is Mr. Rosen, who is overall in charge of what goes on in the class. (1) Juniors Chris McCormick, Cristina Diaconescu, Sue Kallmeyer, Noelle Babb, and senior Deena Jeffs. (2) Juniors Leigh Bond, Sue Williamson, Ken Forston, Jenny Dever, Cathy Ronan, Sue Crane and relaxing is Kara Banish. (3) The Lancer staff at work while senior Theresa Dreist looks up and smiles. ACTIVITIES

CANDIDLY CLICKED

Here on these two pages are candid pictures of the happenings at Kimball, but someday these activities will only be memories of the fun days here.

One of the activities (1) most applied by everyone at Kimball is just plain being with friends. Here a small group of seniors enjoys this while in the glass hall. The school play is an activity at Kimball that many people take part in. There is the cast which must memorize many difficult lines, the props-people who give the play a close-to-life appearance and the audience who decides the success of the production. (2) The play, "Two Blind Mice," was certainly a success and here Mike Russell does his part by sharing his singing ability with a packed auditorium. Another activity which is often taken for granted is the planning and putting-together of the yearbook. (3) Junior Chris McCormick, a new member on the Lancer staff, shows her dedication to the yearbook by writing an announcement to stimulate yearbook sales. You never know what type of activities your everyday classes can offer you. (4) Here Chris McCormick and Laura Robinson look on with big smiles as their friend Sue Personke "tries her hand" at puppeteering while doing a skit in English class. Every year at Kimball the Powder Puff game is played to give the senior and junior girls a chance to rival each other and show their great football abilities. The Powder Puff game also gives those guys with the ambition to show off their legs the opportunity to do so. (5) Todd Lane and Dan Hamson were caught by the camera while displaying their more delicate genteel side. (6) Deena Jeffs and Sue Kallmeyer discuss where and when pictures will be taken for the Lancer. (7) Before the play begins Michelle Carver and Ray Fournier try to relax by rehearsing a few lines and sharing a laugh or two.

MOCK

Mock Elections have been a tradition for Seniors in high school for almost a quarter of a century and that is why everyone tries to make it so much fun. The class officers pick the topics, such as how often you flirt with your classmates or how friendly you are. Because your friends nominate you for each appropriate category, it is a great honor if you are chosen. You have to be extremely talented at something, like athletics or wearing stylish clothes in order to be nominated during Mock Elections. The Seniors who have won in each category certainly deserve it! (1) MARY MURPHY and DAVE BISHOP earned the title of "Most Athletic". Mary participates in Softball, Basketball and Volleyball, while Dave takes part in Football, Basketball, and Baseball. (2) MARY LAROSE and ROBERT MONTGOMERY have worked very hard on their beautiful physiques to be named "Best Bods". (3) JOHN PARMENTER and ANNE KENNEDY have a steady stream of friends, both male and female, to keep up their fun reputations as the "Biggest Flirts". (4) STEVE HARRIS and MALISSA EVO always seem to have a bright and sunny smile on their faces and that is why they were nominated "Sunniest Smiles". (5) MIKE GREENING and BETH SIMMONS have the good qualities that are necessary to earn the title of "Best Personalities".

— ELECTIONS —

In order to have the honor of being nominated "Most Likely to Succeed", (1) KRISTIN ROY and BOB WAIT proved to the Class of 1984 that good attitudes and good grades are important. Do not be too surprised if the headline that is pictured appears in the newspapers in a few years from now! JOHN MAURICE'S hazel blue eyes and PATTI CRAIG'S beautiful, big, brown eyes (2) made them the obvious winners when they were recognized by the Senior Class in the category of "Prettiest Eyes". ARMAND BLANCHETTE and JUDY SIMLER (3) were voted as the "Cutest Couple" of the Senior Class for their ever-lasting relationship. Armand and Judy have been seen together in Kimball's halls throughout most of their high school years. BRUCE WILLOUGHBY and THERESA PICHE (4) make friends easily and they willingly help out others without asking anything in return. These qualities and many others paid off when they became the winners of one of the best categories, "Forever Friendly" of Mock Elections. Being in style and having a lot of class (5) is important if you want to stand out in a crowd. PATTY WEBSTER and JEFF VIEREGGE know what it takes to represent the Senior Class as the "Best Dressed". The 1984 Mock Election winners worked hard to gain the reputations they now have. Underclassmen should keep this in mind: You may be next!

One day out of the school year, the Seniors got their chance to really show what they are made of. They got into their little costumes and flashed their stuff for our school. Maybe one day all those little underclassmen will get to do their stuff, too. (1) This year Kimball had its own flappers to do the Charleston for us. They were Andrea Leslie and Beth Simmons. (2) Is that Senior Michael Felker trying to make a pass at our little Junior, Donna Matthews? Well, it doesn't look like our little Donna is complaining very much. (3) James Flemming looks really enthused to have Guy Kitchen helping him out in his Mechanical Drawing class. But does Guy really look all that enthused to you? (4) Yes muchachos, that is not a senior, but a little senioritta. Anna Consiglio really had all of you fooled, too. (5) As a response to a question, senior Deanna Zeitz pantomimes her answer to the teacher. (6) Jean Giertz tries to put an evil magic spell on her evil typewriter. It does not look like her spell is working too well, because her typewriter is still typing away, much to Jeans disappointment. All these seniors must be thinking about how very fast that day went by for them because they will never have another chance at it again.

Every year at Kimball the senior students hold an election to decide who will fill the important positions of class officers. The class officers of 1984 have chosen to take the responsibilities of planning trips, raising money and organizing the prom. They make sure that the graduating class will have a fun-filled and memorable year. During the year the class officers hold meetings to discuss what they believe would be fun activities for everyone. (1) Beth Simmons, President, plans the meetings and informs the students on upcoming events. (2) Jeff Vieregge, Vice President, deals with the workload the President is unable to handle. (3) A reliable treasurer is important to keep the money matters in order. Carol Pinneo is the perfect person to do this. (4) Debbie Bach holds the office of secretary which involves a lot of paperwork. (5) Kay Cornell, supervisor, offers her knowledge and advice which helps keep the activities running smoothly.

= Dedication =

The class of 1984 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Clyde Ewell. Mr. Ewell has long been a favorite with the graduating seniors. His Senior Math tests will soon be a fond memory for those who had the pleasure of being in his class. Mr. Ewell has been a member of the Math department since 1969 and attended Eastern Michigan University where he earned a Physics Major and a Math Minor. In addition to teaching Senior Math Mr. Ewell also teaches courses in Geometry, Algebra, and General Math. Without Mr. Ewell the Gymnastic, Girls' Cross Country and Boys' Track programs would not have the good reputations they do now. He has been a patient coach throughout the years we have been in contact with him in addition to being an excellent teacher. Mr. Ewell takes pride in his work and it shows. He never hesitates to stop and talk with students that may have a question about his class or teams. The dedication of this yearbook recognizes his many valuable contributions to the student body in and out of school. Mr. Ewell has taught us to be the best that we can be by encouraging us and setting high standards that we are expected to live up to. With a man like Mr. Ewell behind us our futures are sure to be a success.

Editor's Notes:

I tried for hours to try to write something witty or enlightening on this page, but finally I just gave up. I'm not the type of person to write anything sentimental or profound but there are a lot of things we should remember about our past four years at Kimball. As you look through its pages, the 1984 Lancer will remind you of all of the good times our Senior class had together. It took a lot of hard work and dedication to produce a yearbook we would be proud of. We feel that we have succeeded and we hope that you do too. I would like to thank our advisor, Mr. I. A. Rosen, for putting up with us. The staff also deserves a lot of credit for not turning their backs when things got tough. Without their help the production of this book would have been impossible. Among the many who deserve special recognition are: Amy Marino for handling our expenses; Deena Jeffs for all of her work on picture identification and underclassmen; Jenny Dever for being Sports Editor during her first year on the staff; Craine and Williams Photography; and Richard McLenon for his support and the many hours he spent designing a unique cover for the class of 1984. And as for the graduating Seniors: We made it!

Good-Luck!
