College, vocational education, or direct access to the business society; high school must prepare students for all of these. Though sports, dances, concerts, and plays provide memories for years to come, it is a broad grounding in basic education that best serves the students' future needs, whatever their goals. It is this education that high school academics attempt to provide, succeeding or failing in accordance with the students' desire to learn. (circle) Mr. Ashley, Eric Rengstrom and Maureen Mooney play Scrabble as the rest of the class looks on. (square) The razor sharp intellect of Joe Marino analyzes complex algebraic formulas.

Art is a part of everyone's life. There are different forms of art and the classes here at Kimball explore a lot of them. In the classes you use a variety of mediums, from paint to charcoal to paper and glue. Art helps students express themselves. For this reason, many students take these classes, not just the ones planning on going on with it later in life.

Mr. Landry (1) helps Tina Mills with her drawing. Holly Lane (2) glues magazine pieces together to form a face. Laura Culling and Nancy Kotila (3) sketch the skeleton of a horse. Jeff Hughes (4) ignores his artwork while he plays with an "Inspector Gadget" doll. Brian Davenport, James Moore and Dave Dow (5) work on their art project. Debbie Hines and Jackie Grigowski (6) work on their sketches. Sarah Yockey and Michelle Johnson (7) look through magazines for their assignment. Cindy Koendarfer (8) studies the subject as she draws it. Joe Porzondek and Ken Ottino (9) try hard to complete their work.

Industrial Arts classes give students a look into different types of careers, such as architecture and mechanics. Classes like woodshop and metal shop let the students explore their creative skills with different types of woods and metals. Aside from this, Industrial Arts gives the students a refreshing break from the typical classes. A smiling John Ciolac (1) lays out wood to make a cutting board. So that's how a podium's made! Wess Linn (2) finishes it up with a little bit of stain! Paul Jordan, (3) aren't you supposed to be fixing the engine, not taking it apart? Mike Micelli and Wess Lynn (4) work with a machine in Graphic Arts. Joe Rood (5) works hard at stripping a flat. Auto Maintenance is not just to fix cars, as you can see, Paul Grimmett and Steve Paull (6) work hard to fix a lawn mower. Mike Staff (7) really gets into his drawings! Eric Mackan (8) finishes up his cutting board by sanding it down. Mr. Schlottman helps Brant Hauman (9) put a plate on the printing press. Jeff Johnson and Susie Stewart (10) layout a negative in Graphic Arts.

Business

Business is one of the most important parts of life in the real world. There are many job opportunities out there for those students who are prepared. Computer programming, typing, and shorthand are just a few of the many classes at Kimball that equip students with the up-to-date skills they need to be successful business people.

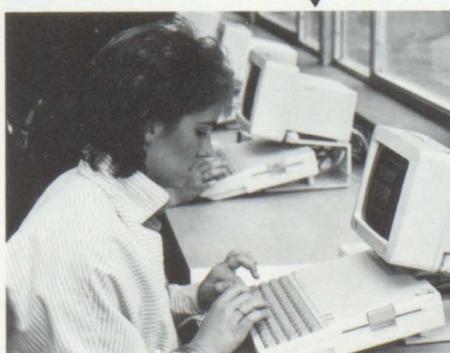

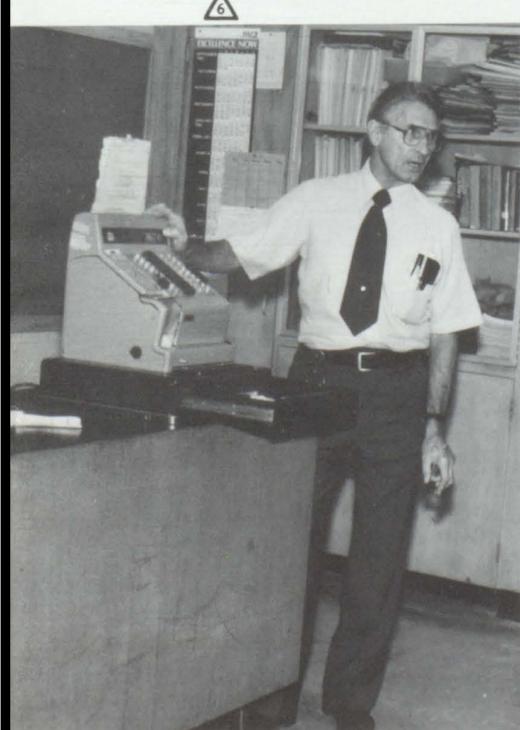

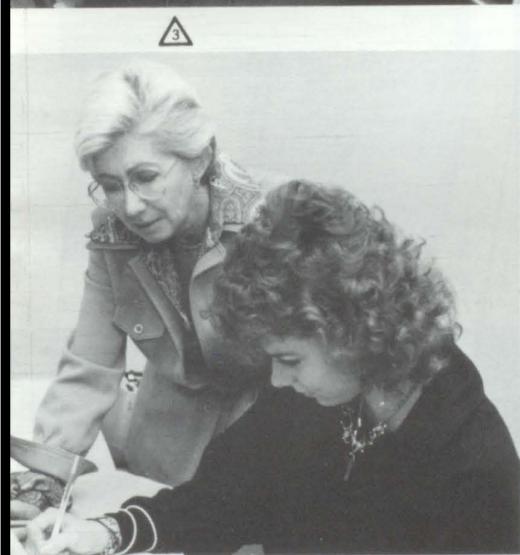

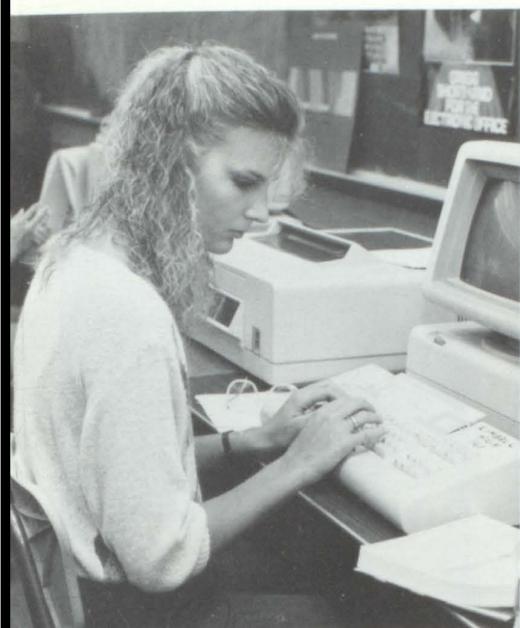

Patti Tucker (1) takes advantage of a free moment to work on her shorthand. Mrs. Flynn helps Robin Sergeant (2) with her typing. Heidi Wagner (3) pauses for a moment's thought as she does her assignment. While practicing her typing, Melissa Vandersoll (4) concentrates on timing.

Joyce Flynn and Richard Hartwick (5) work on typing assignments correctly. Yvonne Crumley (6) receives help with her shorthand from Ms. Hurkley. Ray Wievers, Leesa Brooks, and Tony Tiffan (7) "check out" the cash register.

Mr. Mager (8) teaches cash register technique to his class. Erin Morris (9) demonstrates her computer expertise. (10) Ann Marie Te Selle proof-reads her printout.

Business, the name seems to spell success. The business world is most certainly the largest one out there, and the most prosperous. Today's world is run on business, from the largest phone companies to the smallest privately owned corporation, so it's important that today's students learn as much as they can for tomorrow. The Exit Ramp (1) as it is when you need it most-closed. Sabrina Gupta (2) practices her typing. Jenny Hargreaves and Kim Roy (3) work on their shorthand. Anna Sinagra (4) does her typing lesson for the day. Andrea Gilbert, Andrea Herman, and Julie Gross (5) work on the computer. Ted Carney and Donna Kenan (6) type busily out of the book. Rob Benson (7) carefully practices typing efficiently. Richard Allen (8) checks himself to see if he has made a mistake. Don Harris sells Linda Glasson (9) a candy bar at the Exit Ramp.

Co-op is a course that allows the students of Kimball High to experience the working world while still in school, not to mention the fact that they get credit for it! Students come to school for part of the day then go to their designated jobs for the other part of the day. They can get Co-op jobs in these three fields . . . Business, Office and Trade, and Industry. No matter what students' career plans are, Kimball does its best to ready them for the real world!! Dave Phillips (1) puts time in at the Driver's Ed office. Kevin Phinney's (2) job is to keep the automotive world intact, and that's just what he's doing. Julie Gross (3) puts her business skills to good use working in an office building. Mary Fry (4) gives a helping hand in the Student Service Center. Stacey Loprete (5) works diligently in the Athletic Office. Heidi Zwar (6) works dexterously at the office. Kelly Culling and Wendy Hockstead (7) get ready for their future Co-op jobs with shorthand. Wendy Wade (8) is knee deep in her office work. Gina Young (9) takes a break from a busy schedule in the Main Office. Kim Gazetti (10) takes time out to smile for the birdie!!

Communicating well is an art and a necessity. Kimball's Language Arts program is designed for both. The department offers a wide range of courses in reading, speaking, and writing in English. The courses are so varied that there are eight choices in writing alone . . . including Basic Composition and Imaginative Writing. Among the many other offerings are Debate, Reading Development, American Studies, and Telecommunications. Only the college bound need to take more than three years of Language Arts, but many students go beyond the minimum requirement. Language Arts also offers studies in foreign languages: French, Spanish, German, and Latin.

Joe Marino (1) yells at something while Lisa Klein sits and laughs. Becky Smith and Sara Ogger (2) take time out to look at a poster. Karey Cauley, Jennifer Nealy, and Joey Defauw (3) explain the sentence to the class. Jeff Payne (4) listens carefully to his teacher. Sheri Simmons, Dena Valko, and Sylvia Vivanco (5) take a break from their work to smile for the cameraman. Peter Bowen (6) looks amused as he listens to a lecture. Mr. Norsworthy (7) points out something in Beth Hemmela's book. Seth Norman (8) reads the chapter that was assigned to the class. Luke Johnson, Becky Calwell, and Lori Edwards (9) discuss what their assignment is about.

And even more Language Arts! This only proves how important these classes are to Kimball. These classes are not only beneficial to learning, but can also be an awful lot of fun, especially where the speaking and acting classes are concerned. All in all, the classes give the students a chance to express themselves as the individuals they are. Mike Kasparian (1) makes his point in Argumentation. Kristi Bera (2) receives help from Mrs. Bowen during Spanish class. Linda Fry (3) gives a blackboard speech in Public Speaking. Greg Morrison (4) works diligently in Intermediate Comp. Steve Williams (5) takes his stand in debate. Heidi Rickenbacker and Woody Saunders (6) work together on their assignment. Barbara Phipps (7) concentrates on her Spanish. Mr. Rosen helps Trisha Belanger (8) with Intermediate Composition. Steve Pariseau (9) works busily on his writing project. Bill Grau, (10) deep in thought over his assignment.

Math

Kimball offers many varieties of mathematics, ranging from General Math to Calculus. So it doesn't matter what your ability level is, there's a class for you! Students are required to take at least one year of math to graduate; however, many students take two or more to prepare for college. Even if you aren't going to college, math is a skill you will use in everyday life, even if you're just figuring up your grocery bill. Mickey Iwanski looks amused as he does his math. (1) Bill Zigelmuller works on his calculator. (2) John Ball figures out a problem with a calculator. (3) Karen Smith works out a problem on the board. (4) Becky Spencer, Tricia Olsen, and Maureen Walle work in a group. (5) Ruth Ensley and Anne Ryan look bored in Senior Math. (6) Joe Rood works on a problem. (7) Kelly Snider is studying a new chapter. (8) Students participate avidly in their math class. (9)

Mathematics are important for more than just figuring up numerical calculations. The basic concepts of figuring out all problems can be learned and better understood through mathematics. Learning how to solve equations and figure out difficult problems in a calculated way also sets a pattern for figuring out life's many other problems. Matt Horn (1) is working hard, concentrating on his algebra. Dawn Forgie (2) writes down the solution to an equation. Dave St. Amand (3) checks over his homework for mistakes. Sherrie Reese (4) listens intently as the teacher explains. Dan Dare (5) decides taking a closer look might help him with his homework. Amy Papernik (6) is caught doing something other than math. Andy Ritter (7) gathers information for the explanation. Troy Butler (8) watches the teacher work out difficult problems on the board. Don Bakerian and Rico Grazioli (9) work together on their Algebra.

Physical Education has always been a big part of our school's program. Our Physical Education classes stress health, vitality, skill, and physical well-being. Nothing feels better than being healthy and feeling good about yourself, not to mention the fun that can go along with it! Rick Almon (1) works out in the weight room. Mrs. Tobias (2) teaches her class how to stay in shape. The gym class (3) plays a game of volleyball. Watching the puck closely, the class (4) participates in a game of floor hockey. Kim Roy (5) smiles for the camera and misses a step. Dave Fergusson and competitor (6) fight for control of the puck. Kim Sebell (7) has fun doing her aerobics. Students (8) play a rousing game of floor hockey during seventh hour. Dana Truby (9) pedals away on the exercise bike. Two students (10) compete fiercely for the puck.

Science

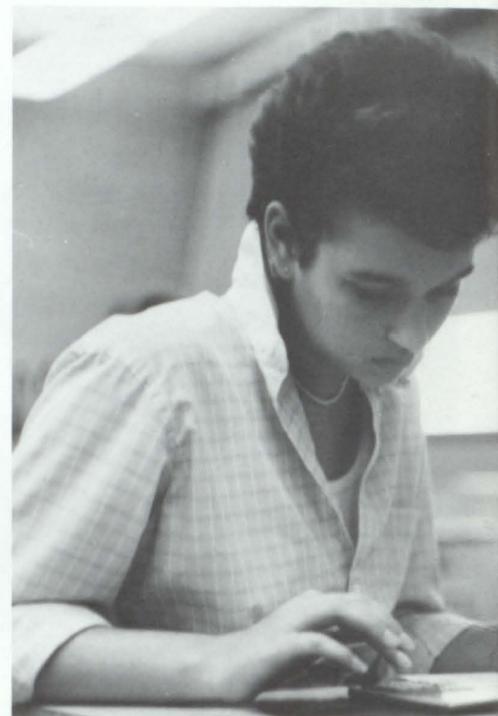

This year the Science Department offers a variety of courses ranging from Physical Science, which is basic, to Advanced Chemistry. Students are required to take at least one year of science to graduate, but many students take three or four years as a prep course for college. Science classes allow the students to experiment with each new theory and concept that comes along. Eva Johnson (1) studies life under the microscope. Julie McPherson and Mike Glaza (2) work on their physics experiment. Ted Wilks and Sarra Mussof (3) give each other a helping hand with measuring and acceleration. Thomas Shi (4) examines data to help him out with an experiment. Scott Marsac, Annette Gardner, and Lynn Marcella (5) share their interest with nature. Jamie Quick, Suzanne Streeter, and Jennifer Sherwood, (6) examine the parts of a crayfish. Mike Ries, Heather Bradshaw, and Jon Bouda, (7) take a look at iodine stained onion cells. Dan Caverly (8) melts a solid over a bunsen burner. Robert Kendorfer, Jenny Miller, and Jamie Moser, (9) study and draw onion cells. Matt Bemis and Julie Primmer, (10) are examining bacteria.

1 Science is an interesting and difficult field to enter into. It's fields touch on chemistry, the environment, life, physics, and the human anatomy. The kids in these science classes today, are the doctors, chemists, and environmentalists of tomorrow. Missy Hedge (1) tries something new, aero-dynamics and water!! Jack Dinn and Matt Dober, (2) experiment with their concepts and theories of science. Calculating is not just for math, as Alice Wiener (3) proves, but can be used in science also! Mr. Posnick shares his knowledge of science with Jill Kovacs (4). Sophia Georges (5) waits patiently for the teacher's help. Laurie Mawhinney and Liz Schenk (6) know how to mix chemistry with a little fun! Suzanne Streeter (7) takes time out of her studies to smile for the camera. Jennifer Sherwood and Suzanne Streeter (8) put some life into their science class!! Mr. Myers (9) demonstrates each lab first, just to be safe. Heather Bradshaw (10) also takes time out from her studies to smile for the camera.

Social Studies

It is very important that we learn as much as we can about this great country of ours, and others, so, Kimball has a variety of Social Studies courses. The required courses are U.S. History and American Government, but others, such as, Psychology, Geography, and World History are also popular among Kimball's students. History may not always be exciting, but it's an important part of making our future - and the future is always something to look forward to for everyone! Faith Godfrey and Jody Shirey are taking a look at a map and point out different countries. Jody Shirey checks her list. Faith Godfrey (2) explains the location of Sudan to class. Andrea Wales and Colleen Sheehan decide that studying together is a lot more fun. Paul Link gives Michelle Ralko (4) a helping hand. Greg Hartner (5) studies his World Geography diligently. Mr. Wall and Lori Yurlovich (6) discuss world geography. Jessica Ingolia and Mike Honner (7) join in on a group discussion. Scott Kemp (8) reads his paper aloud. Lori Elsenheimer (9) studies diligently also. Ben Breman and Nancy Kotila (10) research their psychology notes.

Learning about the world we live in and its history, is very important. Not only so that we don't repeat our mistakes, but also to remember and respect those who have helped make it what it is today. Kim Kramer and Mary Sterling (1) quit doing their work to pose for the photographer. Renee O'Branovic (2) scans her notes for the class. Michele Martin and Kristin Lentner (3) help each other out with the answers. Lisa Axom and Julie Burry (4) work hard on their worksheet. Mrs. Owens and Dr. Popovich (5) hand back tests to the anxiously awaiting students. Mr. Prost helps Jennifer Waines (6) and Debbie Louk with their history assignment. Kathy Gregorczyk (7) reads the material assigned to her, finding the Civil War interesting. Dana Issacs (8) goes through her book finding valuable information. Andy Gammon, Rob Koendarfer, and Howard McLaughlin (9) work together on their assignments.

Drivers' Ed

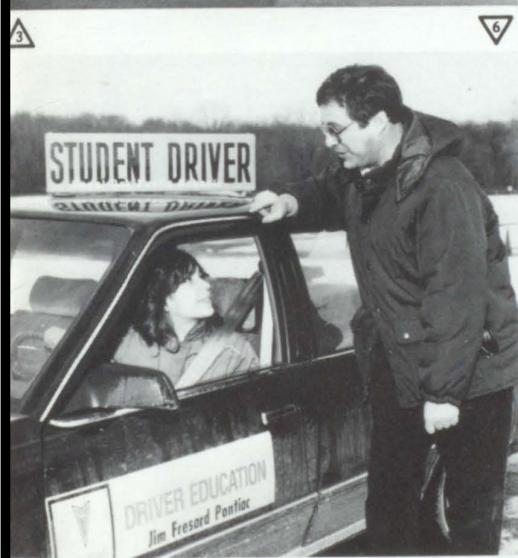

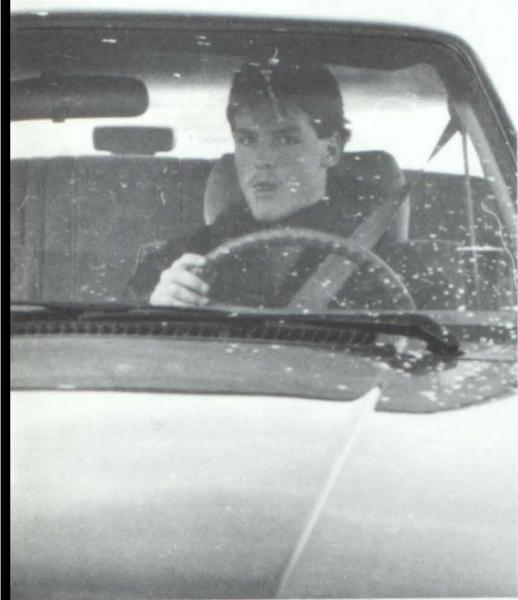

Drivers' Education is a very important step in every student's life. Driving is the sign of freedom, responsibility, and a sense of maturity. It all starts in the classroom. Every student must take bookwork first to learn the rights and wrongs of the driving laws. Then, they move onto the driving range where they use the skills that they learned in the classroom. But, how can a student learn to drive from a book? That's where our teachers come into the picture. They are there to help students in their time of need, like trying to get out of a snowbank. This course may just be the best course a student takes in school.

A student (1) prepares to parallel park. Donna Sweet (2) successfully parks and smiles with satisfaction. Robert White (3) looks good behind the wheel. Michelle Guadette (4) gets ready to take to the road. Christine Grimmett (5) pauses to pose with her vehicle for a picture. Mr. Freeman gives Beth Bethe (6) some before-the-road advice. The students (7) practice on the driving range. Jody Shirey (8) answers the bookwork questions in the Drivers' Ed classroom. Julie Gram (9) says, "Oops, I went a little too far!" Trudy Diemer (10) makes a right turn on the driving range.

ACTIVITIES

SHOUT

Be they players or spectators, few high school students find their four year experience to be a solely academic one. Whether huddling bleakly in the stands on an autumn Friday night, or grunting and smashing about in the mud below, there's a place for everyone. Certainly, high school would be incomplete if one never spent a Friday after the game in the cafeteria jostling amongst three-quarters of the freshmen class. Activities are undoubtedly a vital, if not the capital, component of high school life. (circle) Cast members from the Spring Musical, Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, look toward the stage. (square) Tom Petty chugs rootbeer during last year's field day competition.

Homecoming is one of the few activities that the entire school can take part in. Seniors nominate members of their class for the Homecoming Court and the whole school votes for a king and a queen. Following the football game Roundtable sponsors a dance. The 1985-86 Homecoming theme was Sesame Street. The class of 1988's (1) winning float. During Homecoming (2) Kimball's defense tackles a Ferndale Eagle. Joan Haremski (3) escorts a very excited Don Harris. Tom Petty (4) enhances Wendy Wade as they dance during Homecoming. Mr. Mooney (5) escorts his twin daughters Colleen & Maureen through the arches. Souvenirs the King and Queen will cherish for years to come. Assembled together the King and Queen (7), Kim Gazetti and Dan Kosnik, stand with the court and their escorts. Kim and Dan (8) delight the crowd with their joyful smiles. Following the parade during halftime (9) the nominees line up along the field.

This year's powderpuff game was as exciting and funfilled as year's past. The Senior Smash was victorious over the Junior Clash with a final score of 6-0. Lisa Weigand and Andrea Wales (1) look for action shots during the powderpuff game. (2) Looks like the seniors have the ball. Julie McPherson (3) gets tackled by a few Juniors. The crowd looks anxious (4) as the juniors carry the ball. (5) Tracey Straith, a glow in her eyes, runs with the ball. (6) Senior Allison McInnis and Junior Darci Vorhes struggle with the ball. (7) Deanna Macks watches teammate Teri Sierens go for a touchdown. (8) Amie Padgett and Cheryl Rohaly ponder a preposterous play. (9) Pam Howe receives the kick off before a good return. (10) Candice Wolgast and Tracy Smith wave to their Junior team. Seniors cheer (11) as they win the powderpuff game.

Kimbball's 1985 fall play was THE MIRACLE WORKER. The story centered around a blind and deaf girl, Helen Keller, who had become totally unmanageable. In desperation her family hires a governess, Annie Sullivan. After many long struggles, Annie reaches Helen and teaches her to communicate with other people and the outside world. (1) Katie Keller (Diana Barnes) checks on her baby before realizing scarlet fever has left Helen blind and deaf. (2) Captain Keller (Seth Norman) attempts to quiet Helen (Sabrina Gupta) by giving her a piece of candy. (3) Helen tries to figure out who Annie Sullivan (Karin Larson) is during their first meeting. (4) Helen's brother James (Pat Landreth) pouts after fighting with his father Captain Keller. James, and Katie are served dinner (5) by Viney (Chris Dumoulin). Viney (6) fills a pitcher at the Keller's pump. Annie (7) receives a doll to give to Helen from the orphans. (clockwise from Annie) Laurie Daly, Sali Kelley, Michelle Johnston, Cheryl Major, Jennifer Bowman, and Annette Gardner. (8) Captain Keller edits his newspaper work. Roundtable organizes many activities year round in an attempt to eradicate apathy here at Kimball; such as, Field Day, Homecoming, the Canned Food Drive, and dances. Roundtable President Wendy Wade (1) shows a cheerful disposition. Matt Godlewski, Sheri Simmons, Jay Welch, Tracey Bera, and Mike Welch (2) wait to turn in flower receipts to Michelle Fox. Kevin Martin and Kim Kraimer (3) discuss Field Day. Jay Welch and Scott Hodgin (4) prepare the football for the Homecoming game. Kimball is very glad to participate in a foreign exchange program. It is an enlightening experience; we learn about other countries while they learn about ours. This year's exchange students, Erik Regnstrom of Sweden and Kiyoko Okamoto of Japan, have brought to Kimball an exchange of knowledge, personalities, and fun. Kiyoko (1) writes a letter to her parents back in Japan. Erik speaks with Mrs. Parker (2) about his new school schedule. Our two exchange students (3) Kiyoko Okamoto and Erik Regnstrom. Kiyoko (4) hangs decorations to brighten the classroom. The two exchange students (5) show each other where their countries are. Erik (6) smiles casually for the camera. Kiyoko takes time out from her work (7) to pose prettily for us. Erik (8) does a timing for his typing class.

A yearbook is something that you'll be able to look back upon to remember all of the good times, good friends, and the kid who sat behind you in biology class. Probably, no one believes now that "These are the best years of your life," but when you look back upon this book, long forgotten memories will start to re-surface and you'll come to the realization that indeed these were "the best of times."

The Lancer staff is dedicated to creating the best yearbook possible. Kori Schultz and Kevin Martin, our co-editors, work to make everything run smoothly. This year's Lancer staff and Miss Fell, our advisor, enjoyed preparing the yearbook and take pride in it. Amy Papernik and Barb Monaco (1) carefully begin a layout. (2) Co-editor Kori Schultz has done a great job with this year's Lancer. Our other co-editor Kevin Martin (3) gladly helps others with their work. Amy Padgett and Cheryl Rohaly (4) check out some negatives. Traci Mocaby, Brent Legris, and Sandy Stacey (5) enjoy looking at old yearbooks for ideas for their layouts. Michelle Pronovost (6) hurries to the Lancer room to meet a deadline. Olga Zogzas (7) has a great time writing copy. (8) Kimball's Lancer Staff: Back row (l - r); Kim Ardisson, Michelle Pronovost, Brent LeGris, Michael Delozier, Kevin Martin, Jon Sabo, Olga Zogzas. Middle row; Maryann Pappas, Traci Mocaby, Liesl Large, Patti Tucker, Amy Papernik, Barb Monaco, Sandy Stacey. Bottom row; Kori Schultz, Mary Allen, Cheryl Rohaly, Amy Padgett, Lisa Wiegand, Heather Fassett. Not pictured are Andrea Wales, Laura Mawhinney, Missy Hurley, Colleen Kavanagh, Scott O'Connor, and Kim Martin.

XENOLITH

Xenolith is Kimball's creative arts magazine. Students contribute drawings, stories, and poems for the annual publication. The Xenolith staff meets twice a week during homeroom to review all submitted work and decide what will be accepted into the magazine. Xenolith advisor Barbara McClanaghan (1) checks the drop box for new contributions. Kyla Boyse and Ruth Ensley (2) read newly contributed stories. Critic Pat Kelley (3) initials yet another poem. Marijo Wimmer (4) reviews the work on her table. Editor Robert Hartwick (5) proofreads an accepted story. Art Editor Erika Bruning (6) trims a poster. Xenolith editor (7) John Crowe. Library and A.V. Staff

With the aid of Miss Scarafino and Mrs. Partridge, the Kimball Library Staff gives the school quick and efficient service, as well as competent study guidance. Without the help of the Library and A.V. Staff, seeing films and videos, hearing the plays and other school productions, or finding and checking out library material would be quite a chore. Mrs. Sulker (1) checks out a design. Ed Caughell and Kevin McCallum (2) stand guard at the front desk. Mrs. Scarafino (3) does some behind-the-desk work. Mrs. Sulkanen (4) assists Dawn Hampson with library information. Gayle Tennant (5) works with rearranging the newspapers in the correct order. Once again Miss Scarafino (6) pauses to smile for the camera. Mike Miller (7) our A.V. Supervisor poses with pride. Kathy Koerner (8) leafs through a magazine. (9) The Library and A.V. Staff are: Top Row (L-R) Mike Messing, Heather Nichols, Rob Rowland, Julie Burry, Mike Mandachia, Shirley Yaikow, Joe Crouse, Sean Spitsberger, Coy Cordone, Ed Caughell. Spirit Week

This year Spirit Week started off With Hat and Buttons Day then moved onto Hawaiian Day, Tacky Day, Senior Dress-Up Day, and it ended with Blue and Gold Day. John Crowe (1) shows he is proud to be a K-Mart Blue Light special representative. Gina Guccini (2) flashes a smile for the camera. Robert Schultz (3) poses stylishly. Jeff Demunnik, Brian Brackenbury, Paul Dzenzel, and Jeff Galetti (4) are looking good in their trendy attire. Maureen Bodenbach (5) shows her spirit as a Ghostbuster. Don Pinneo and Glen Hilzinger (6) in fashion. Scott Woody (7) lets Tacky Day go to his head. Susie Stuart, Stacy Edmunds, Sherri Forrester, Carol Midea (8) pose for the camera. Sandy Stacey (9) showing off her flashy sombrero. Sheri Simmons (10) is ready for the beach. Ann Marie Holas (11) dresses like her idol. Blaine Tillander (12) strikes a scholarly pose. Spirit Week was fun for everyone involved and a lot of effort was put into it by the students.

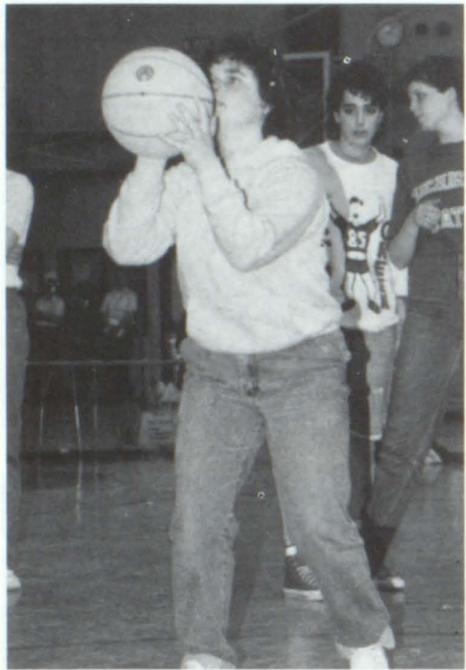

Musical

7he Thespian (Drama Club) put on SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS for the 1985 Spring Musical. The story is about Adam (Rob McMillan) who goes to town to find a wife, Millie (Colette Comeau). His new bride discovers Adam has six brothers. After many adventures, six of Millie's sisters marry Adam's brothers. Julie Burry (1) prepares by applying make-up. (2) Colette Comeau, Michelle Roy, Ray Fournier, Mary Nahat, Ben Brennen, Mike VanWinkle, and Cathy Korzenborn sing during a scene. (3) From top left Jeff Duryea, Cranford Nix, Joe Finkle, Amy Gore, Bruce McLauchlin, Jenny Hargreaves, Nicki Babb, Alisa Foss, Chris Dumoulin, Karin Larson, Joanne Banish. (4) Cast members in the town dance (5) The Brothers steal Millie's sisters. (6) Ben Brennen plays the role of Gidian. (7) Millie sits surrounded by her new brothers. (9) The brides (from top) Michelle Roy, Kyla Boyse, Cathy Korzenborn, Colette Comeau, Beth Hemala, Mary Nahat, and Sandy Heathcote gather around.

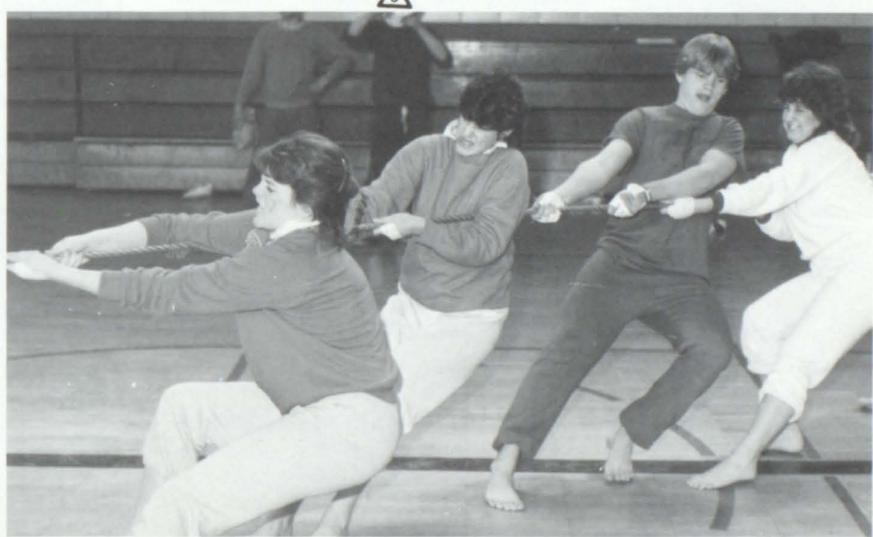

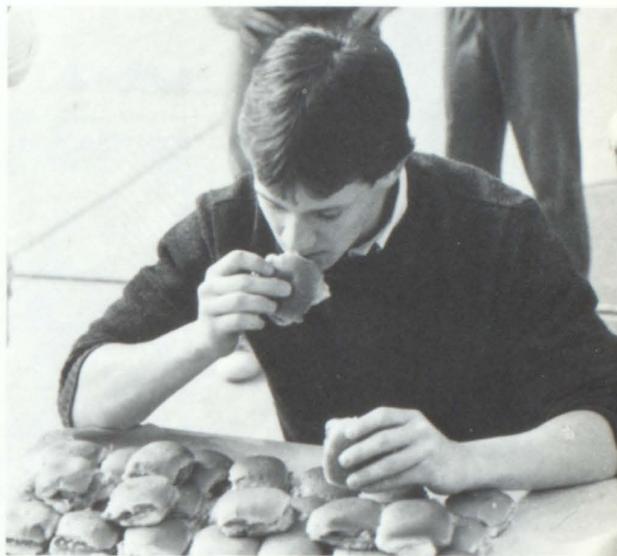

Field Day

Field Day has been a long tradition at Kimball. It is a clash of the classes in every sense of the word. Many students enjoy the competitive atmosphere of this event. Students dress in their class colors, sit in class sections, and cheer loudly whenever one of their own challenges opponents from the other classes. The sophomores were the champions of the 1985 Field Day. Jenny Adams (1) takes skillful aim at the basket. Members of the Class of 1987 (2) cheer after their team successfully completes the "spoon thread" event. The seniors of 1986 (3) hasten in their own attempt to win the "spoon thread." (4, l to r) Marianne Saunderman, Kim Kraimer, Kevin Wendland, Carol Midea, and Dave Phillips give the tug-o-war all their effort. Dan Caverly (5) takes a hefty whiff of his "slider" before chowing it down.

The current juniors (6) run toward their teammates at the end of the gym, in the three-legged race. John Herndon (7) participates in the rootbeer chug as Heather Haack looks on. The 1985 Juniors (8) strain under the pressure. Teammates (9) cheer on Javier Rocha as he does his sit-ups.

TAKE ON ME

The largest portion of extra-curricular activities is centered around various Kimball sports. Our athletic program allows students to develop and refine their talents to their fullest potential. Athletes take much pride in their accomplishments, working together with teammates to play the best game possible. Coaches encourage individuals to push themselves a little longer, to give as much to the team as is possible. Participation in a sport requires perseverance, determination, a positive attitude, and time. Although there are outstanding athletes in every sport, each individual is an important team member. (circle) Dave Arthur leads as Ben Brennan follows closely behind during a cross country run. (square) Scott Hill watches from the sidelines.

UNDERCLASSMEN

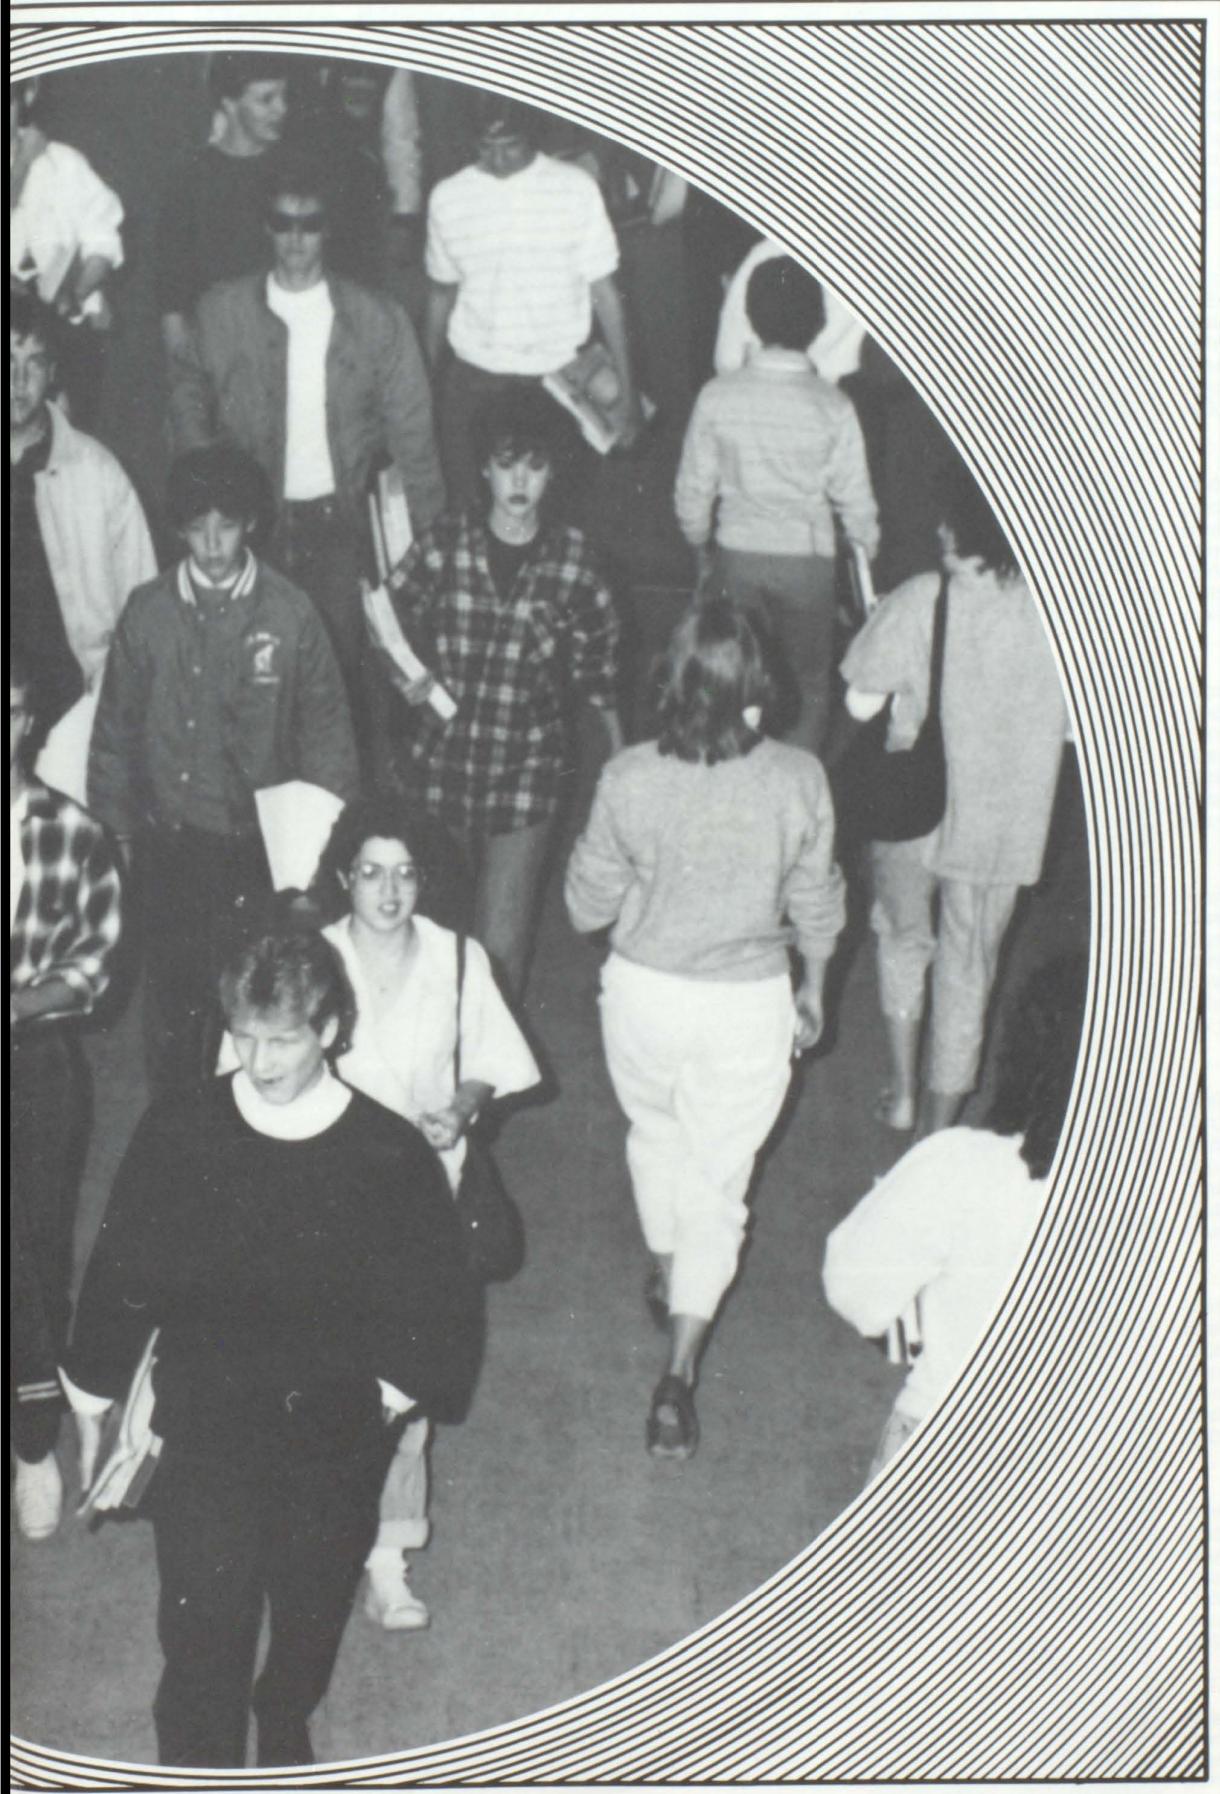

In the years to come, underclassmen will venture into new experiences and ideas, but they also have the responsibility to carry on the practices and expectations of Kimball students. This tradition of academic and athletic excellence must be passed on from one class to another. Kimball's reputation has been building for over 25 years and will continue with today's underclassmen. (circle) As usual in between classes is a very busy time, and the ramp is definitely one of the busiest areas in the school. (square) Rob Wicklund, while working in Mr. Borowski's World History class, looks up to check when his assignment is due.

SENIORS

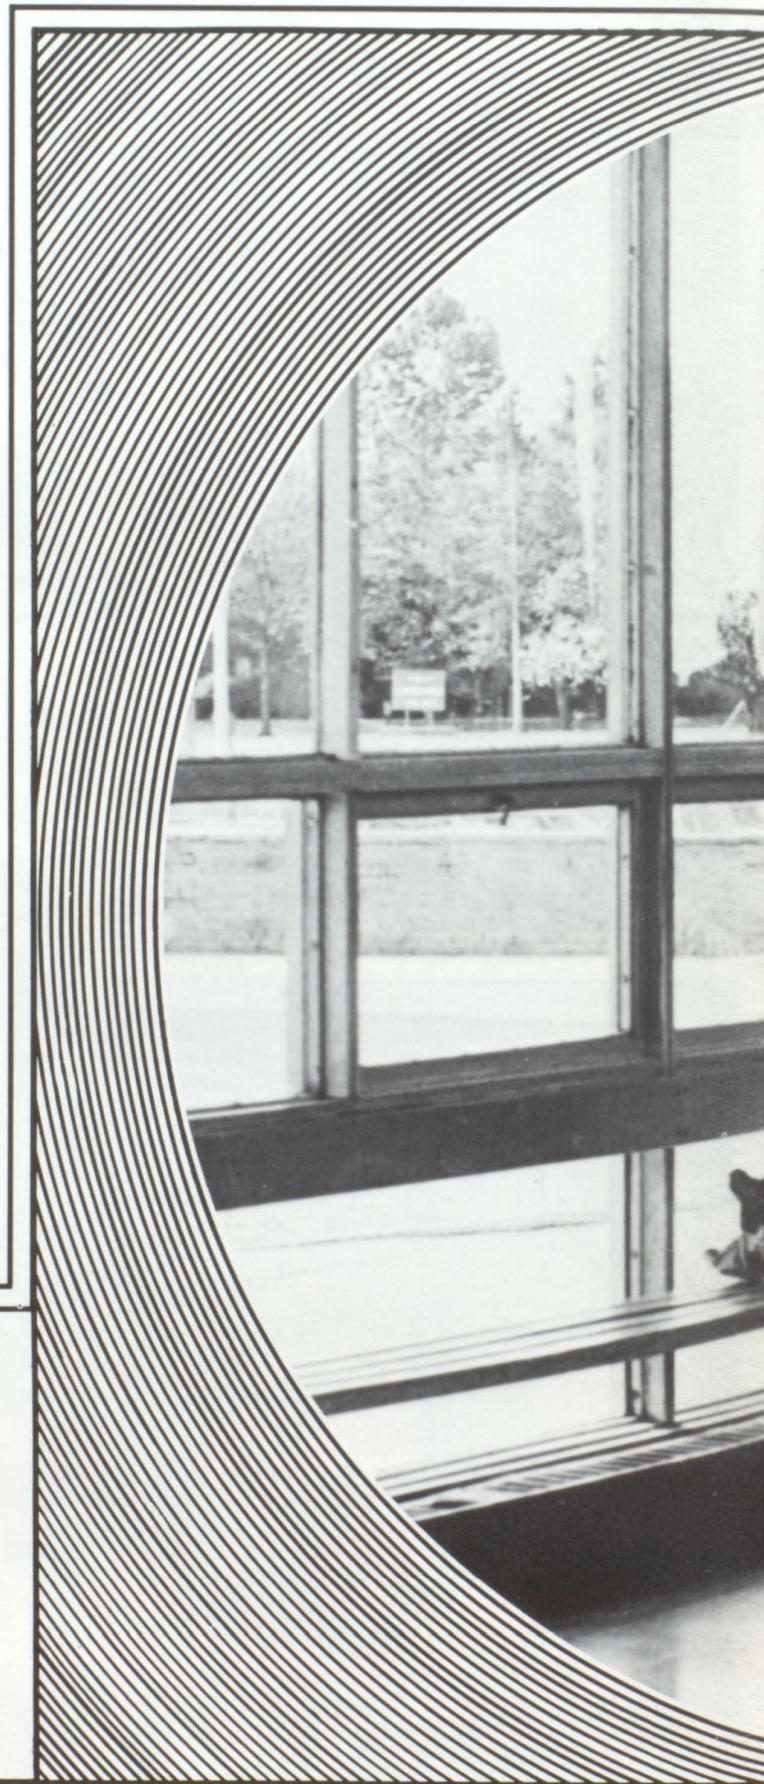

To finally reach the mighty and prestigious rank of "Senior" is something looked forward to from the time a student enters high school as a freshman.

Being a senior doesn't just mean being "number one" in the school, it also means the last step before entering into the adult world. From early on, the goal is to get this far, and the seniors of 1986 have made it; where they go from here, is yet to be discovered.

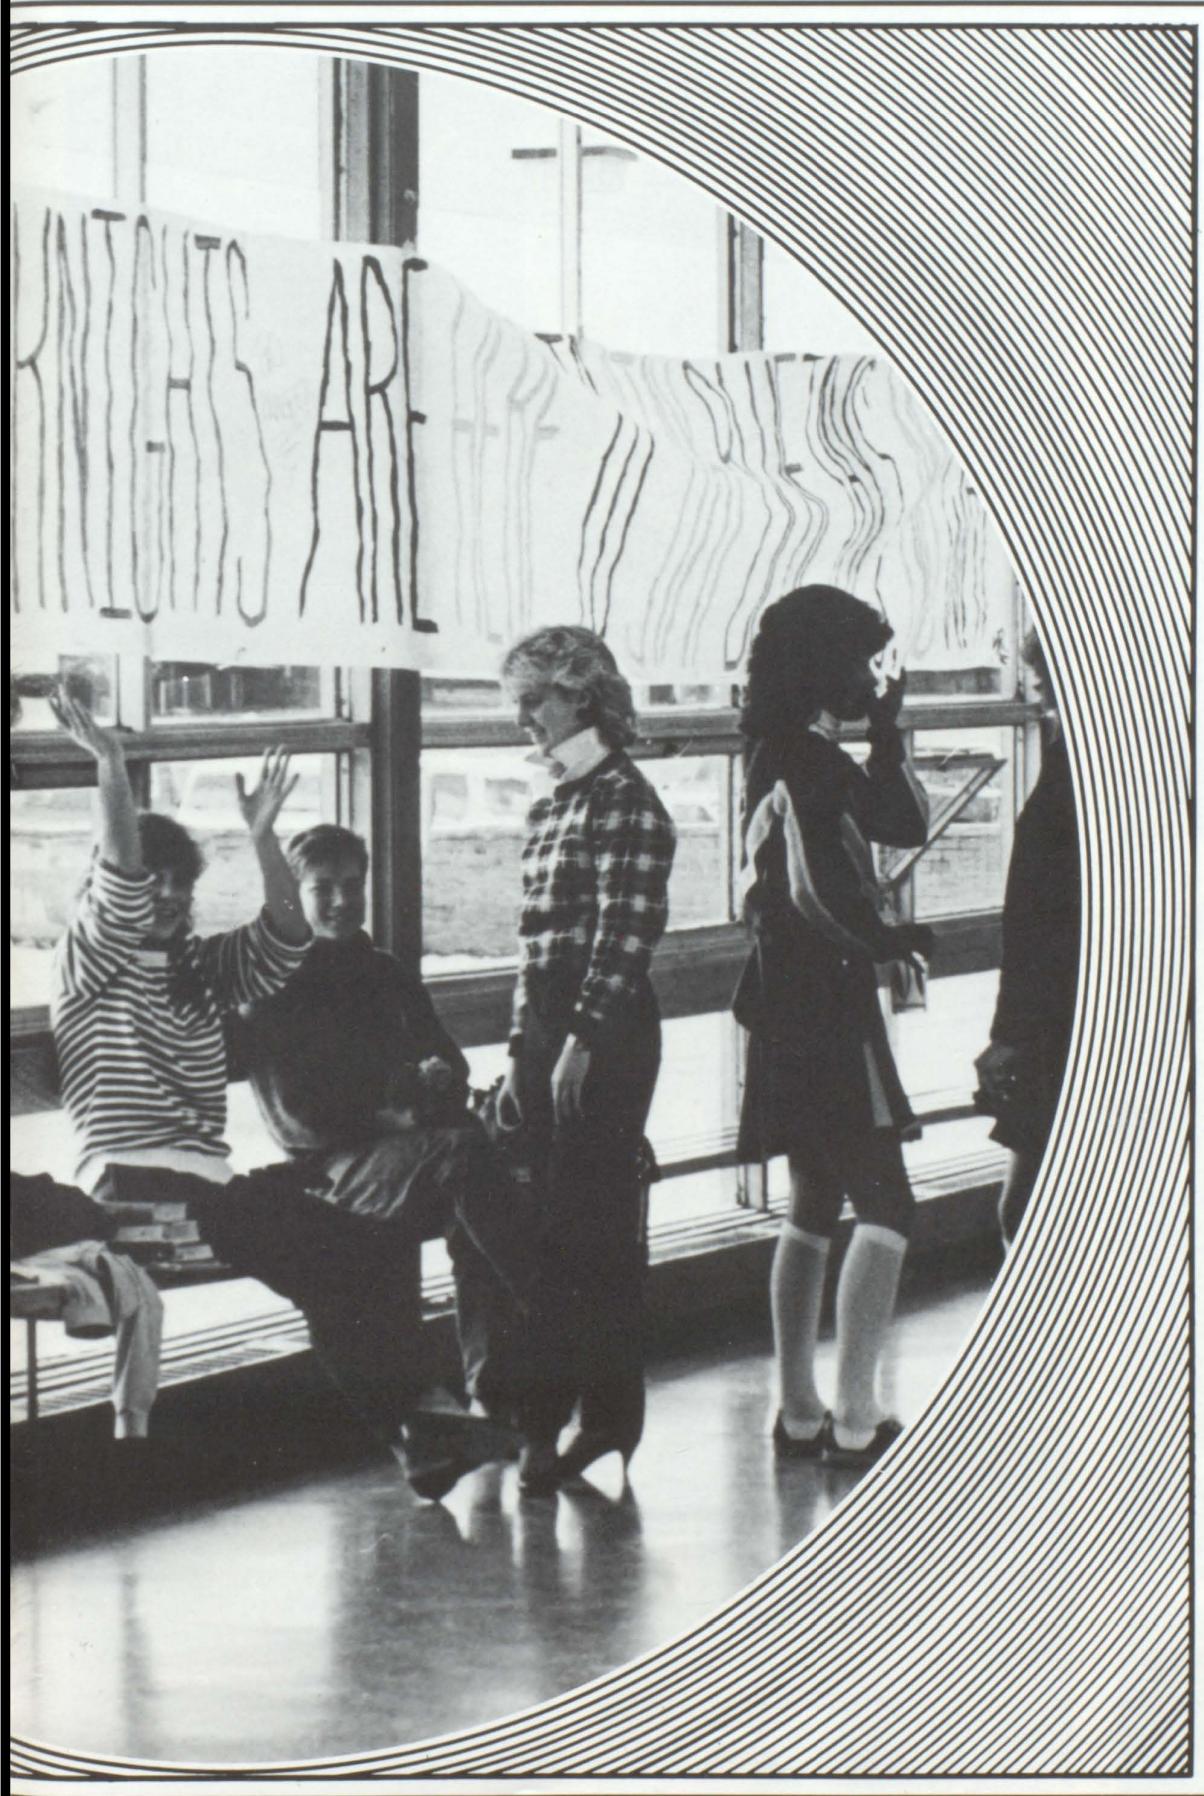

Wherever it is Class of '86, we wish you a smooth yet exciting journey.

Knotable Knights

Chosen by their coaches and teachers for their ability, leadership, and dedication, Knotable Knights represent the outstanding members of the class of 1986. (1) MARY STERLING, a member of the cross-country team for 4 years, was named most dedicated, most reliable, and 1986 captain. Involved in cross-country for 3 years, captain JAMES MOORE has been All-County, All-SMA, and All-Regional. (2) RUTH "snake tongue" ENSLEY is President of Forensics and has placed 1st in districts, 3rd in regionals, and received various other awards. President of Debate EMILY SINTZ has won two 1st place awards at state tournaments, and the INDIVIDUAL DEBATE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP. (3) SCOTT KITCHEN, a member of the Varsity swim team for 3 years was a 1986 co-captain. A 4-year varsity member of the swim team and this year's captain, MEGIN SAUNDERS was named MVP. As co-captain of the varsity swim team, DAN KIBBY has placed 7th in the Oakland County backstroke. (4) Co-captain MAUREEN CARNEY was a 4-year Varsity track participant. A 4-year track member, co-captain AMY GORE, has won 7 medals and over 20 ribbons. Captain of this year's track team, KEVIN MARTIN, has won 5 medals and was last year's Most Improved. (5) LISA MILKER, a 4-year member of the tennis team and the 1986 captain, has been named All-League, Most Dedicated, and MVP. HEIDI ZWAR has been the manager of the boys' tennis team for 3 years. (6) Two-year soccer captain JENNY ADAMS has been All-League, County, State, and MVP. Named All-League, All-County and MVP, KEVIN MC CALLUM is a 3-year Varsity soccer member. (7) JON VANDERGRAAF, a golf team member for 3 years, is a 6 time medalist. MONICA MARQUARD is a 3-year Varsity softball member, whose awards include Most Dedicated and Most Improved. Captain RODNEY ORTH, a 3-year Varsity baseball player, has been MVP, All-SMA, and All-County.

7 his section of the yearbook is reserved for Seniors only. These are the seniors who best represent each category chosen in the class of 1986. The categories include: Basically Bashful, Nicest Eyes, Best Dressed, Sunny Smilers, Heartiest Partiers, Class Clowns, Personality Plus, Forever Flirtacious, Cutest Couple, Best Bod, Most Likely To Succeed and Most Athletic. They've got that, personality! Teri Sierens and Don Harris (1) have those "knock-out" personalities that makes anything they're in more fun. They are PERSONALITY PLUS. These two are on the ball when it comes to athletics. Dan Kosnik and Jenny Adams (2) have shown their outstanding sportsmanship and have been recognized for being the MOST ATHLETIC.

Mock

Mock Elections

Brant Hauman and Megin Saunders (1) show their ironic humor as the deer and the hunter. These CLASS CLOWNS aren't afraid to show their true selves when it comes to comedy.

Chosen from the senior class this year, Scott Hill and Linda Glasson (2) take a break from working out to proudly pose as BEST BODS.

The smiles of Mike Isles and Kim Gazetti (3) reflect their sunny dispositions. The SUNNY SMILERS brighten the lives of the people they touch.

Look out world! Here comes the determined and MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED duo of Kimball High School. Kori Schultz and Tim Conselyea (4) are ready to storm the business world.

Sophistication, elegance, and style is what Nancy Kotila and Mike Vieregge (5) stand for as this BEST DRESSED pair show their taste for stylish apparel.

Mock Elections

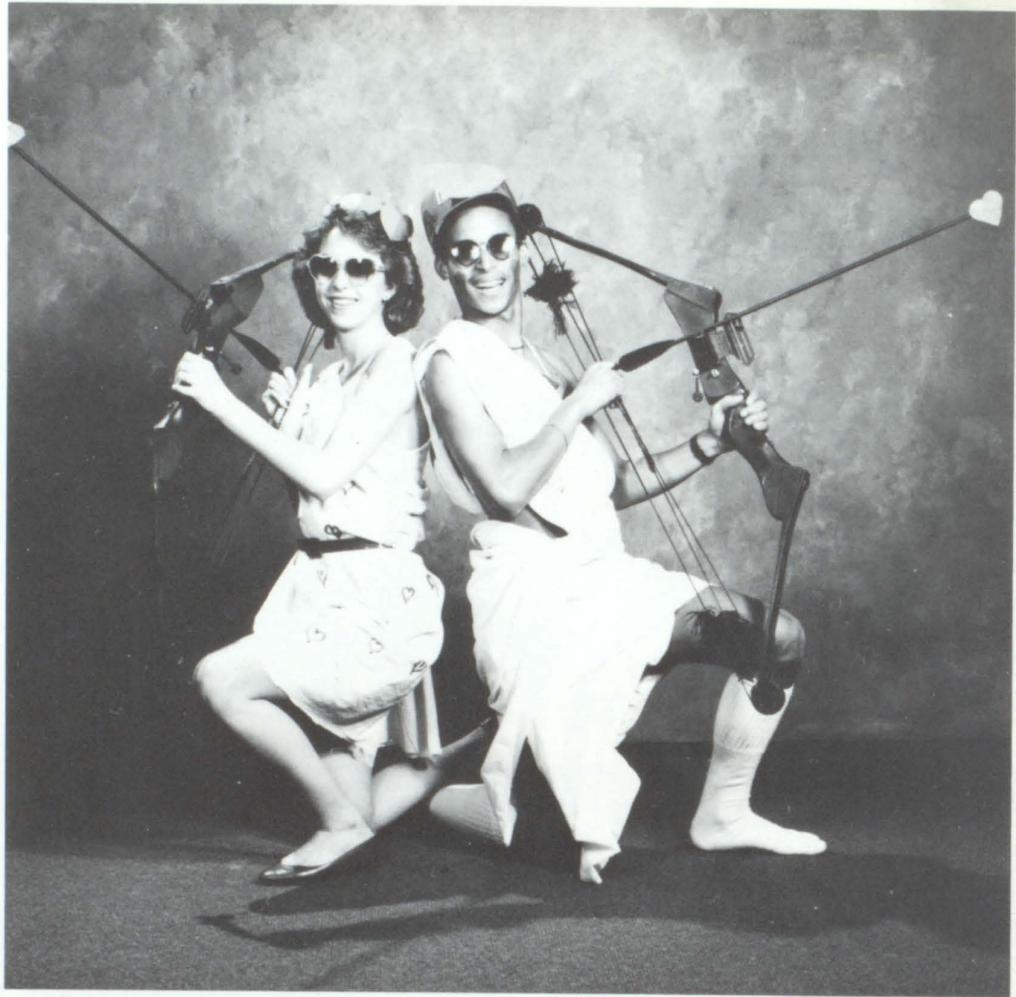

"We love everybody and you're next." That is the motto for Stacey LoPrete and Marc Conway (1) famed for FOREVER FLIRTACIOUS of 1986. Trying to love everybody isn't easy, but these two will sure try.

Dearly beloved, we are gathered here today to introduce to you the CUTEST COUPLE of the Class of '86 (2) Kurt Ehrle and Maureen Mooney. They've been a couple for two years now and are still going strong.

BASICALLY BASHFUL are Jon McIntosh and Linda Bentley (3). Never too outspoken, these two will use their quiet ways and calm manner to get their point across.

Life is a party for Eric Cracknell and (4) Michelle Grenier. Leave it to these two "swinging" people to be the HEARTIEST PARTIERS of them all.

The eyes are the mirrors of the soul, and these two have the soul in their eyes. Voted NICEST EYES are (5) Wendy Wade and Chris Jewell.

Over the years Mr. I.A. Rosen has given his time and patience to Kimball students, and for this he is commended. Mr. Rosen graduated from Wayne State University with a major in English and a minor in journalism. Before becoming a teacher he worked on several newspapers and was the managing and feature editor of the Wayne State paper. A member of the Kimball faculty since the school's opening in 1957, Mr. Rosen has taught various English classes, and was the newspaper and yearbook advisor through 1985. Kimball students appreciate all he has done and will remember him with affection and respect. "YA KNOW WHAT I MEAN?"

MONEY CHANGES

When most students get through reading the yearbook, they come to the advertising and close the book. They may not realize that without much-needed and caring advertisers, there would be fewer pages and less color. Advertising earnings contribute to making Lancer one of the best yearbooks in Michigan.

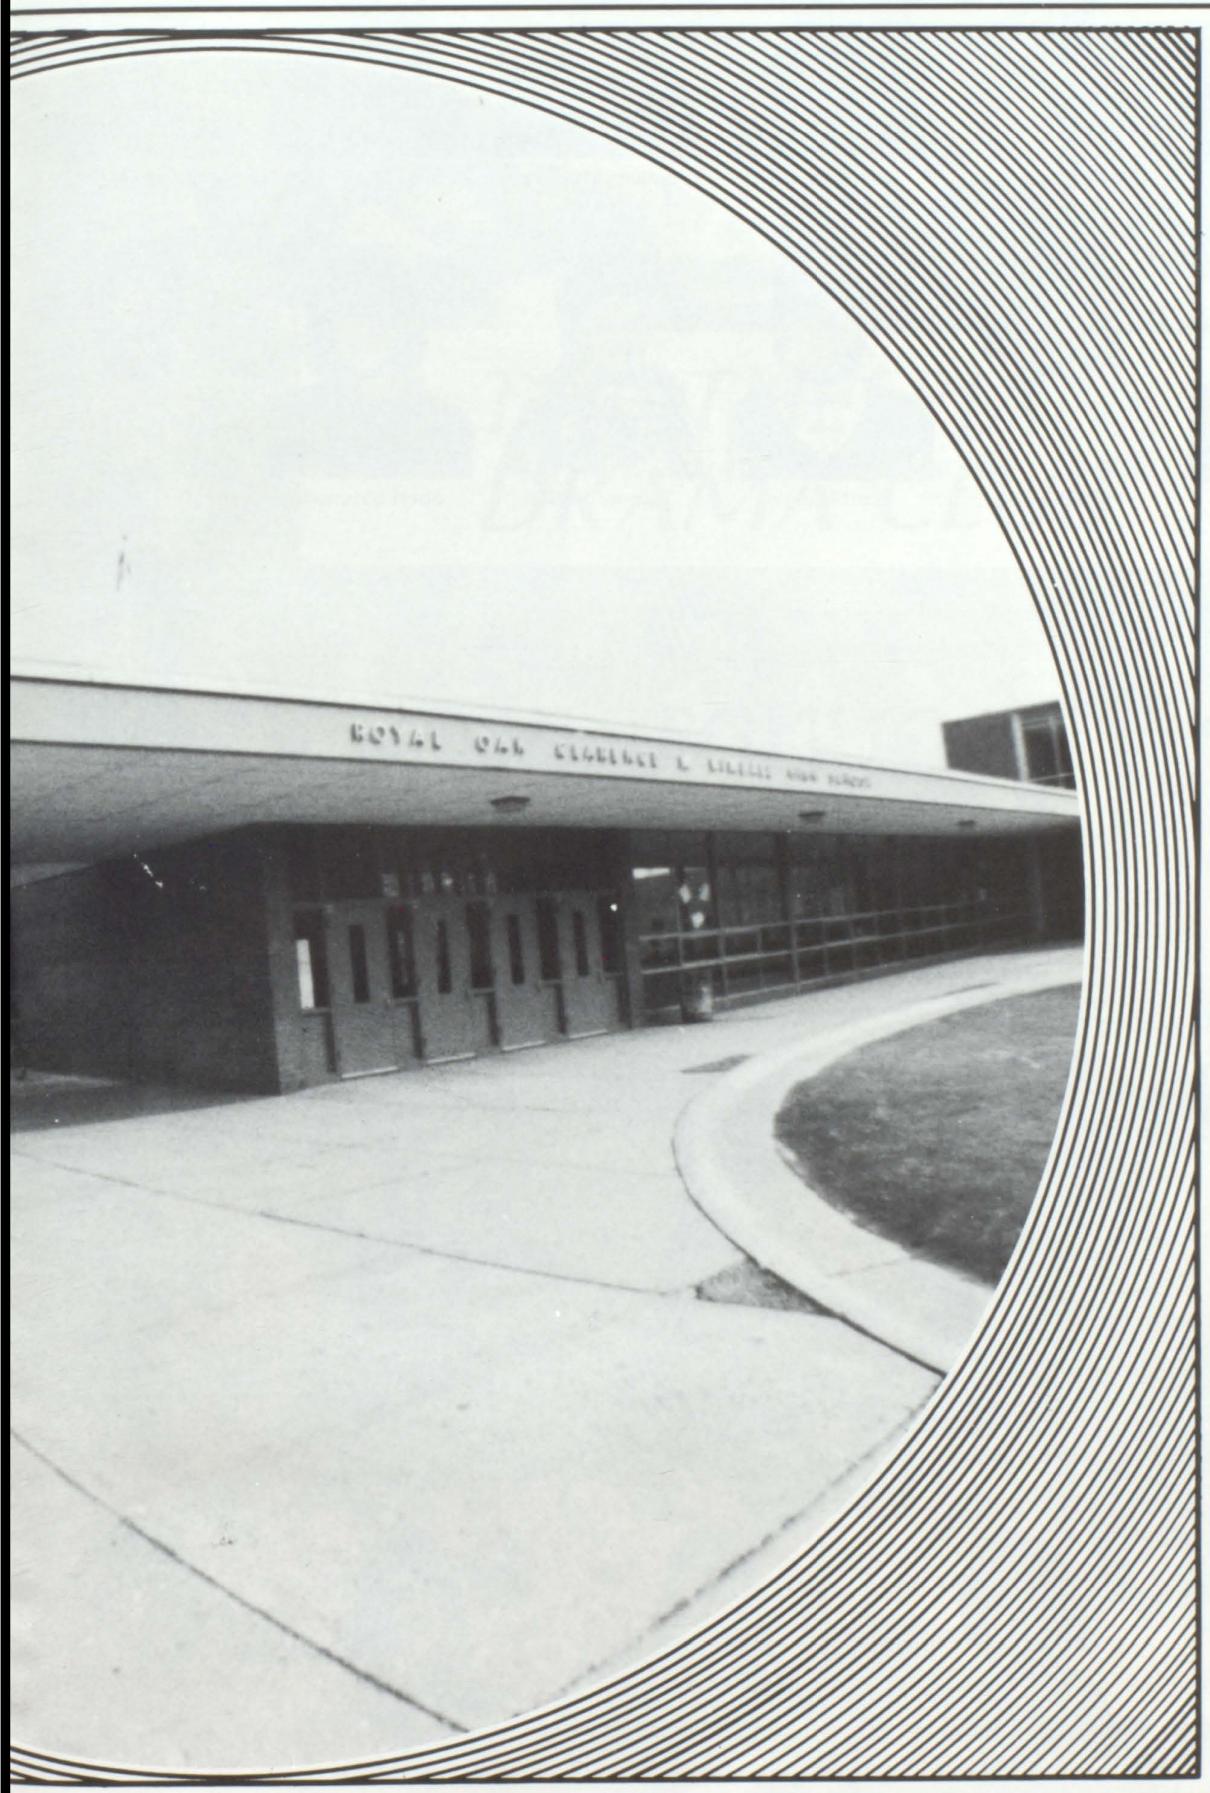

Dedicated staff members who sold more than one ad include Mary Allen, Jon Sabo, Kori Schultz, Amy Papernik, and Michelle Pronovost.

Special thanks go to all the advertisers who have encouraged us with their loyal support over the years. Welcome to our new advertisers. Thank you for helping us make Lancer a colorful yearbook that covers all aspects of Knight life.

Lancer Staff's . . . LAST MEASURE!

Benita Fell (Advisor): This was a special year for me, as the new Lancer advisor. Thanks to all, for making it such an enjoyable adventure.

Kori Schultz (Editor): Whose idea was this?

Kevin Martin (Editor): Good Luck - Class of '86!

Jon D. Sabo (Business Manager-Photo Editor): One day, I'll Look back on all of this - and wonder . . . why? But right now — who cares!

Mary Allen: Don't take life too seriously, you'll never get out of it alive.

Kim Ardison: Seriously

Cody: No matter where you go . . . There you are!! But you know that's casual!!

Heather Fassett: Can you handle it?!

Laurie Mawhinney: You'll love it!! . . . Trust me!! Would I lie to you?

Missy Hurley: Last Word? I have no last words!

Colleen Kavanagh: Get A Clue!!

Liesl Large: Astounding . . . Truly mind blowing . . . Absolutely grand smashing PHENOMENAL!

Kim Martin: To "THE GROUP" to remember L.J., The Femmes, M.D., Summer '84.

Tracie Mocaby: Long Live the "Kraft Crew!"

Barbara Monaco: Catch a Wave!

Scott O'Connor: Honest, Mom! I didn't Drink on New Years.

Amie Padgett: "Get a new life, Guys!!"

Amy Papernik: "dancing with tears in my eyes" . . . ULTRAVOX

Maryann Pappas: "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

Well, next year Class of '87, you're all grown up.

Michelle Pronovost: Open your eyes . . . and see what you're really missing!!

Cheryl Rohaly: "If looks could kill!"

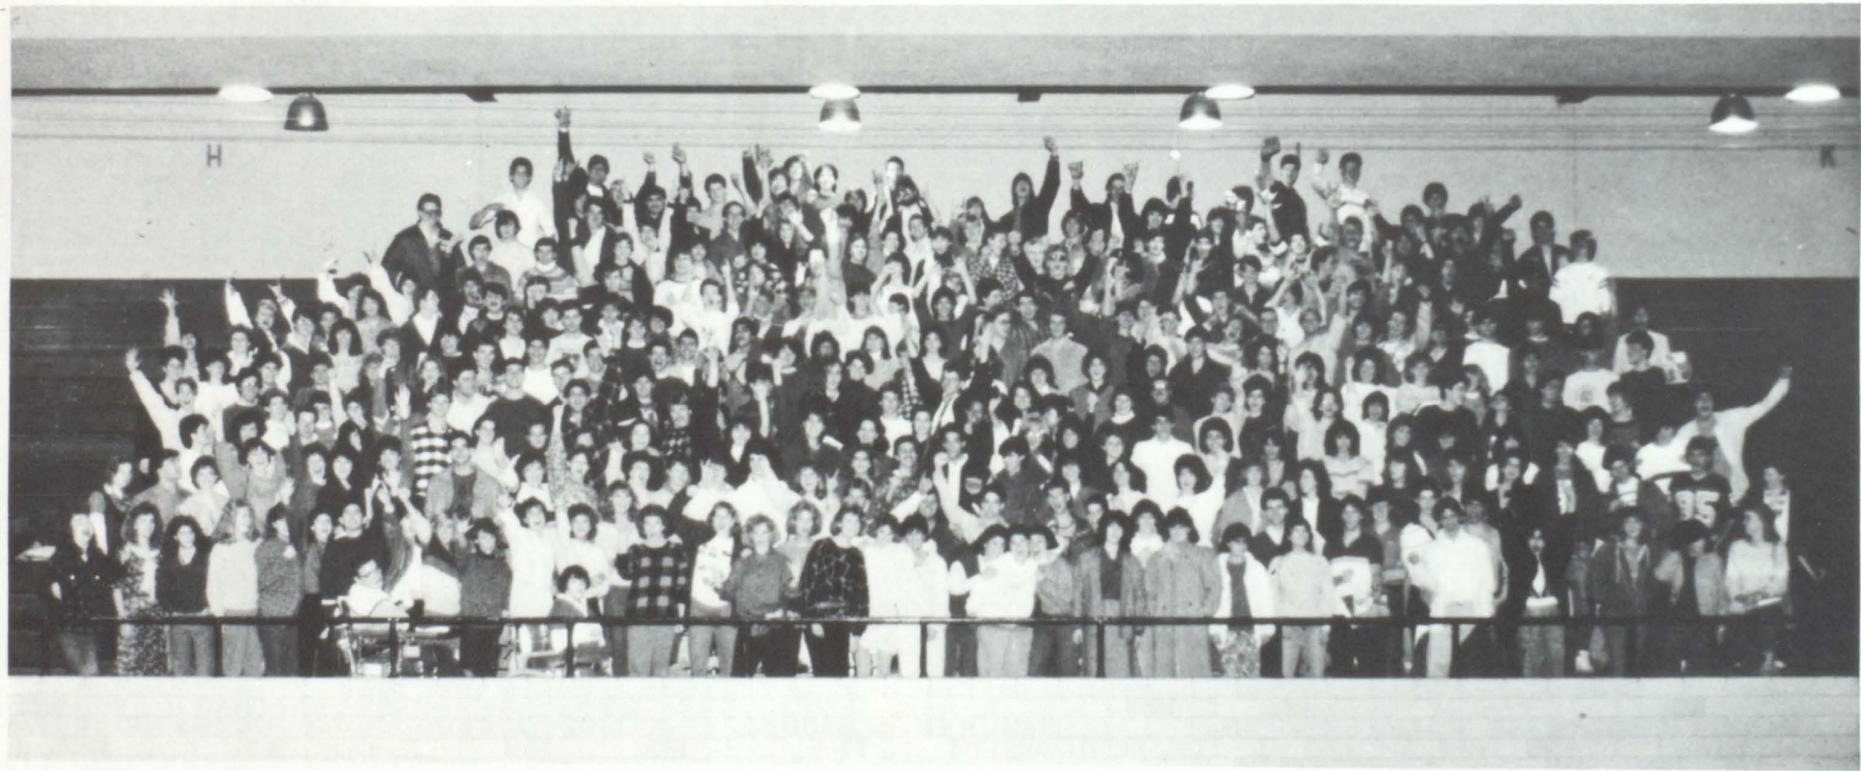

Jenny Snell: Hey'! Rae & Sally! . . . The best is yet to come!

Sandy Stacey: Your future can be good, but don't ever forget the past!

Patti Tucker: Everybody's doin' it! Shouldn't you?

Olga Zogzas: There ya' go PINNOTCHIA!!!

Senior Class of 1986

Editors' Note

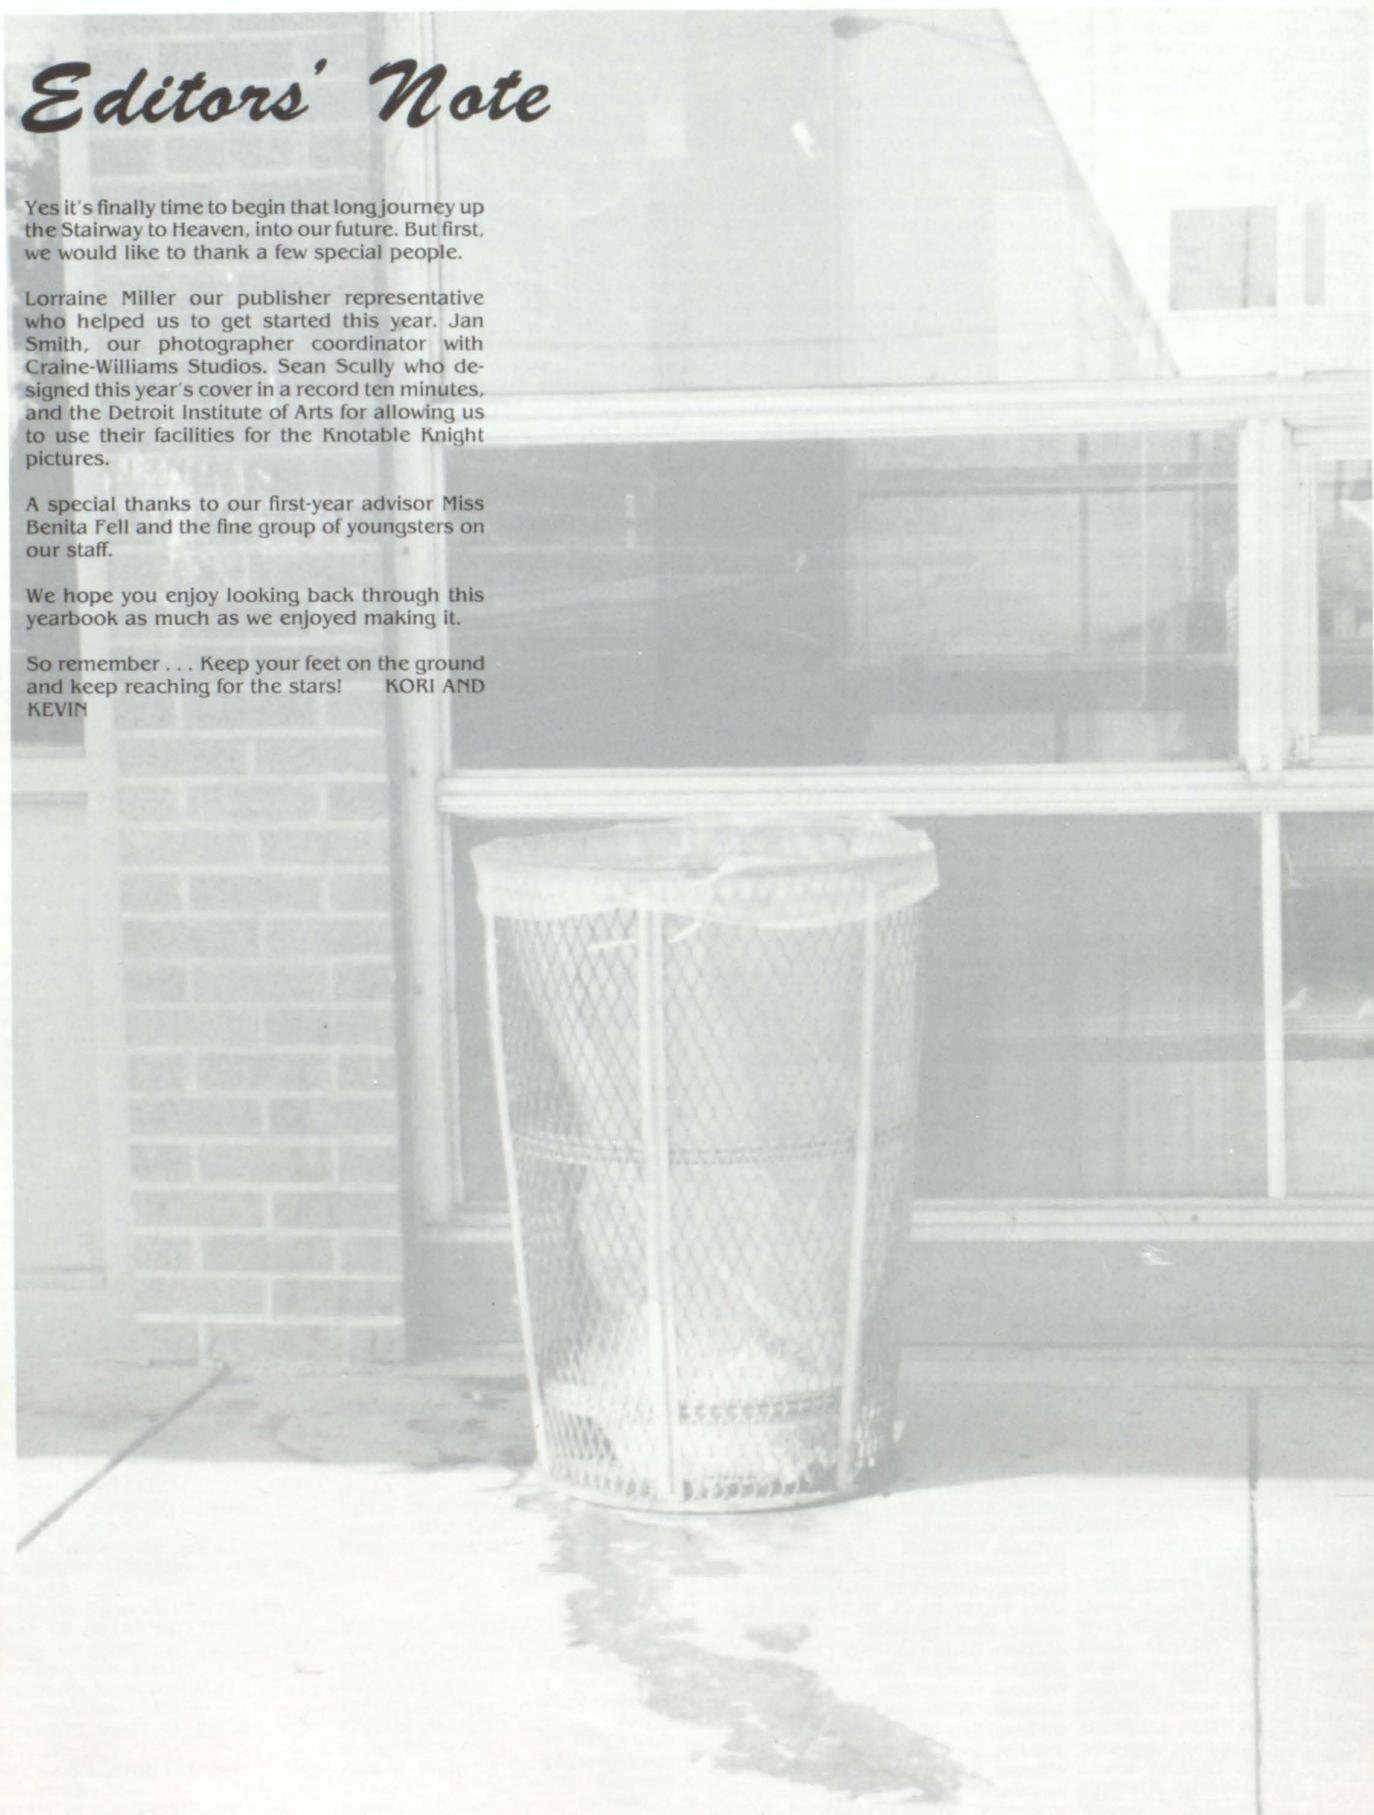

Yes it's finally time to begin that long journey up the Stairway to Heaven, into our future. But first, we would like to thank a few special people.

Lorraine Miller our publisher representative who helped us to get started this year. Jan Smith, our photographer coordinator with Craine-Williams Studios. Sean Scully who designed this year's cover in a record ten minutes, and the Detroit Institute of Arts for allowing us to use their facilities for the Knotable Knight pictures.

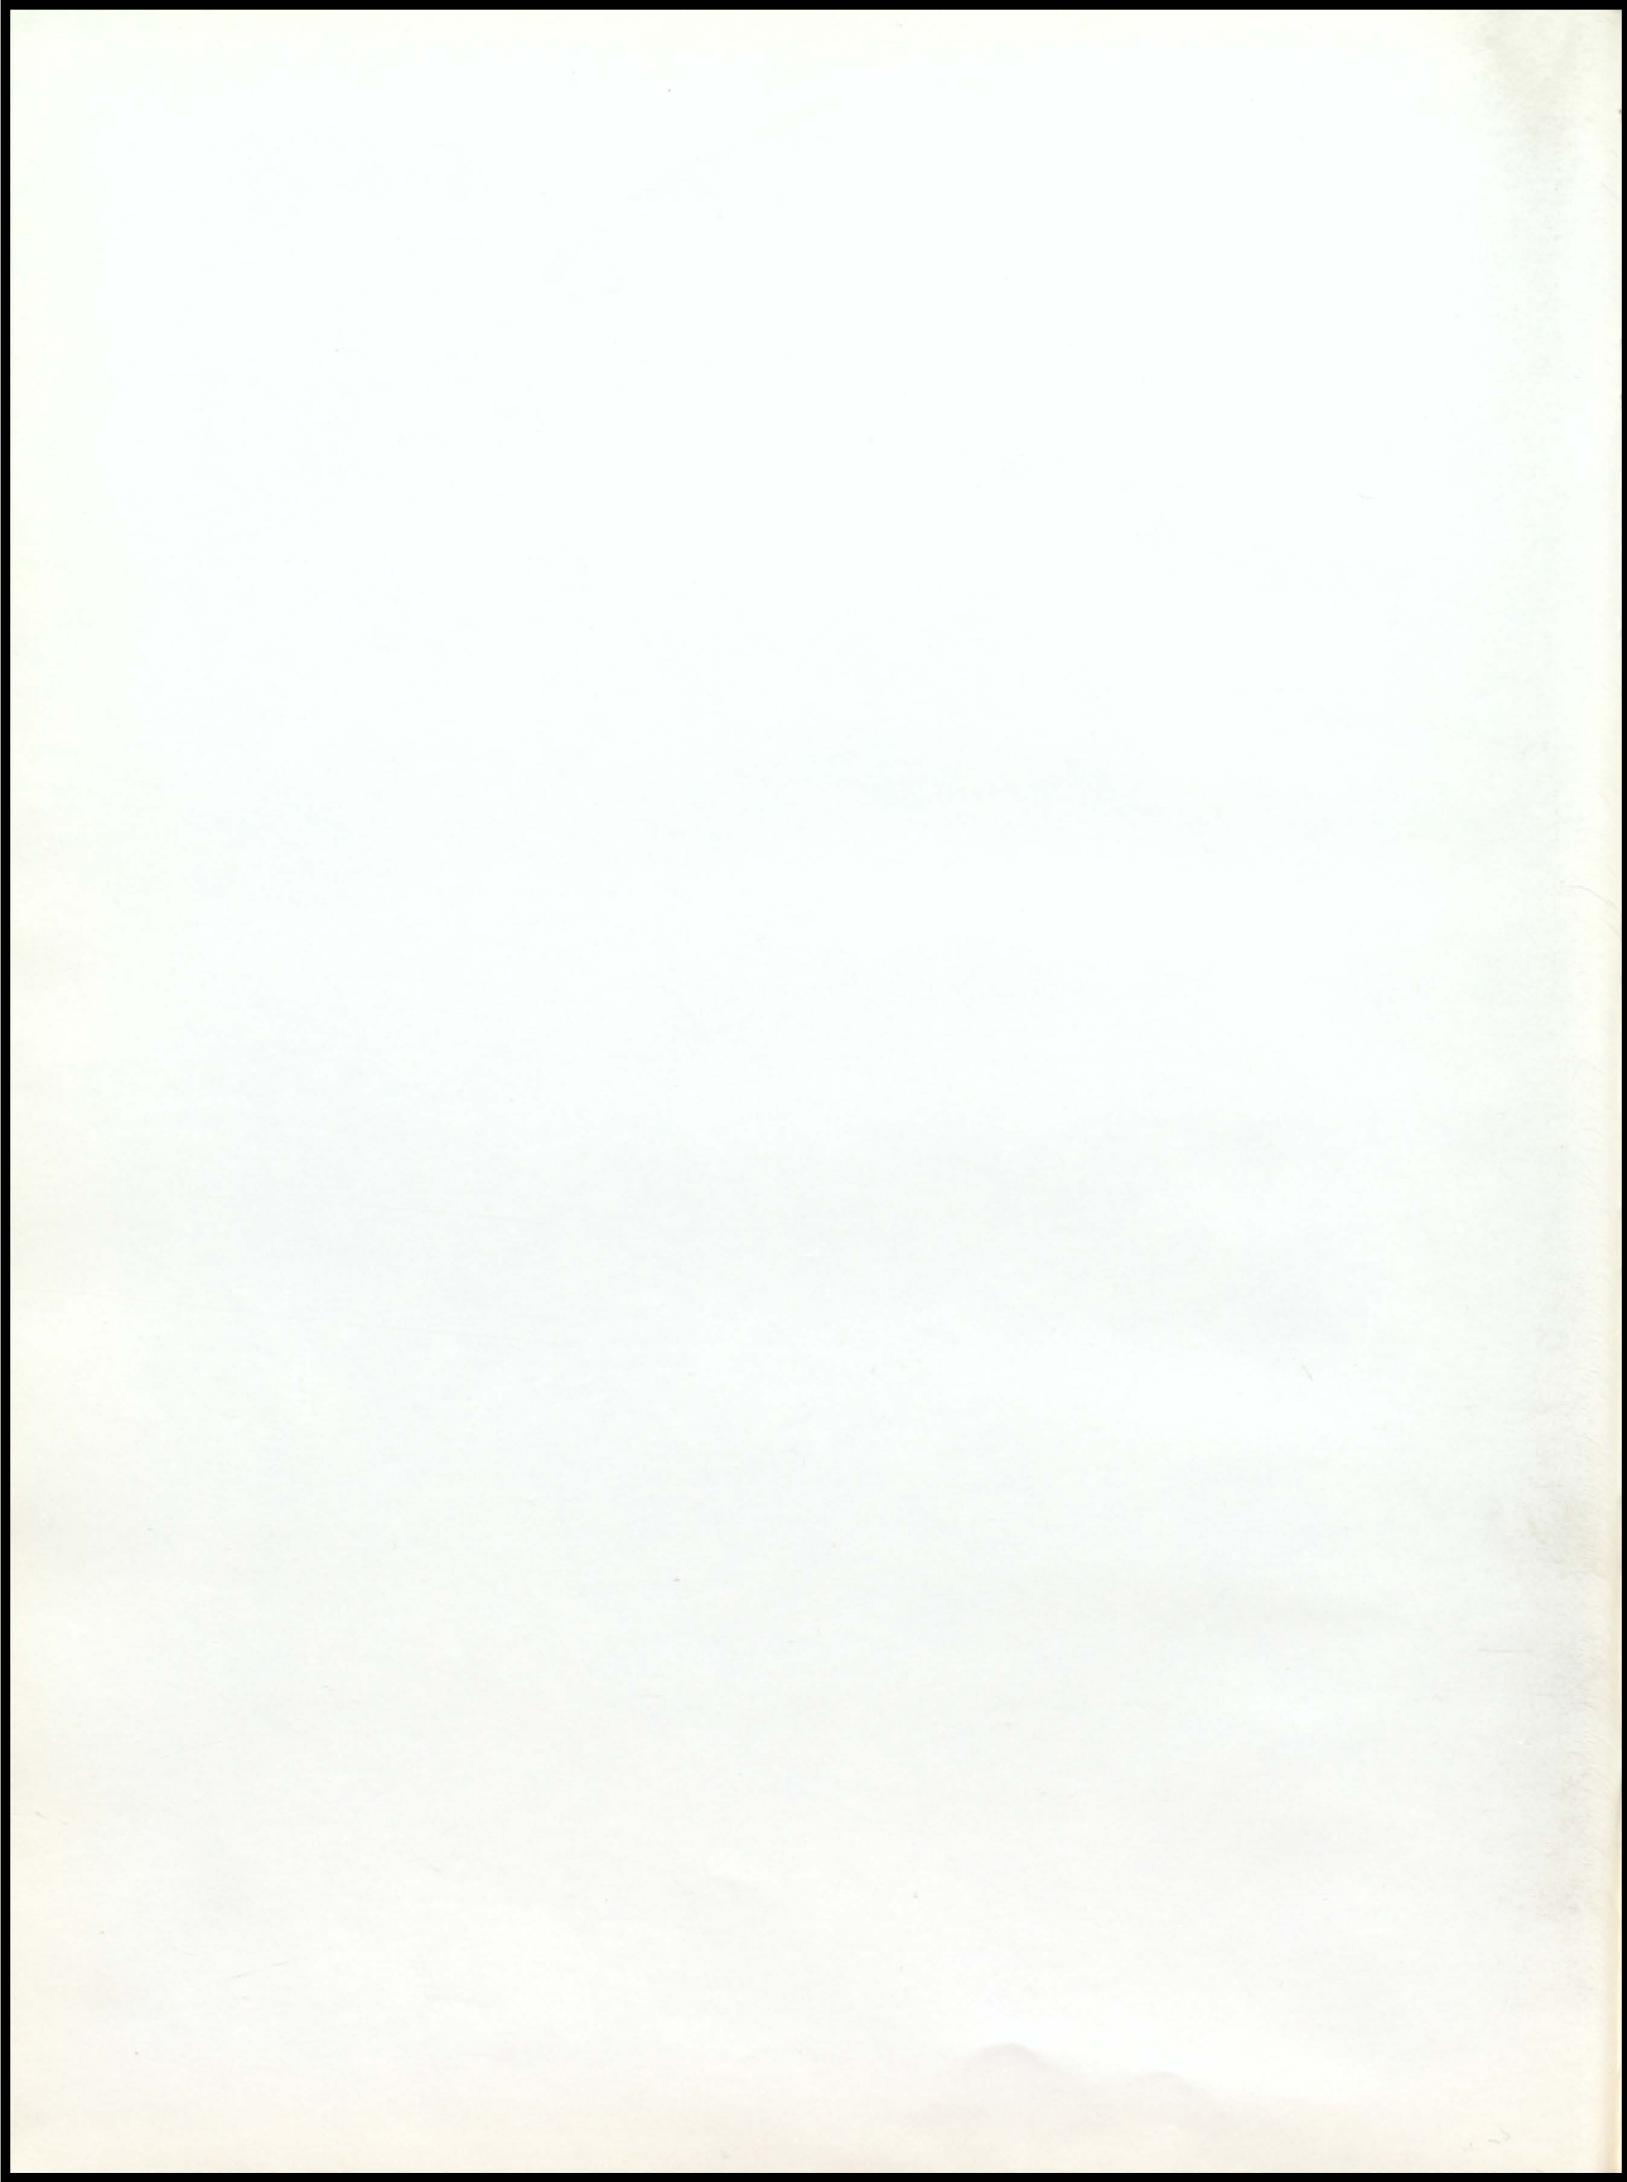

A special thanks to our first-year advisor Miss Benita Fell and the fine group of youngsters on our staff.

We hope you enjoy looking back through this yearbook as much as we enjoyed making it.

So remember . . . Keep your feet on the ground and keep reaching for the stars! KORI AND KEVIN
