There's very few public places for kids to play in this neighborhood. We take our daughter to the playground at St. Mary's, but know it's private property and we probably shouldn't be there. Otherwise, we have to walk more than a mile and cross major road - 11 Mile or Main Street. Playground with "ninja warrior" type elements will extend the age ranges that use it. An adult gym would be nice too, but I think a kid's playground should be the primary focus.

Please share any ideas, hopes, or concerns you have about the future of this greenspace:

We've been really disappointed that this play area has been closed for so long. First with the bridge being boarded up and then with the entire play area being closed. We use this area regularly and it is literally the only public play area for kids in our little side of downtown. We're expecting a third child and would love to have a space for all of our kids to play again in the near future!

Q15

Are there any final thoughts you would like to share?

All of the ideas on the previous page seem lovely, but at a minimum we'd love to have a safe play space back for our kids since our side of downtown doesn't have any other play areas not located at a private church.

Q16

If there was another park that you wish this area mirrored, which would it be and what attributes?

Safe play place, shade if possible, benches for parents, if it could be bigger than before that would be so much fun!

The closest play structures are all private: St. Mary's church, that other church down the street--there is no walking distance playground. The yards are small in this area, so any extra space for child play makes a huge difference.

1. Please avoid digging up any trees! The trees are growing great! 2. Really hoping for a children's play structure again because I live very close by and all other playgrounds require crossing bigger roads and are just further away! The yards in our neighborhood are small so public playgrounds are imperative!

Are there any final thoughts you would like to share?

When I was visiting Los Angeles, I played tennis on the rooftop of a parking structure. There were 4 courts on the top level, which was open to the sky. And, there were high fences around the perimeter. The city uses a mobile app to allow people to schedule court time. So, I wonder if the top level of one of the parking structures in Royal Oak could be converted to this type of use.

It's not a big space but I hope that the city makes it multifunctional. Some seating maybe a place to play chess maybe a ping-pong table a volleyball court if it's big enough some place structures I think that the space is big enough that we can do a great many things in it. We may have to change the landscaping the currently exist to do that or perhaps we can put some seating features underneath the pine trees or in other places so that we can get the most banged for the Buck. Of course it's gotta have some play equipment, but I don't think that has to be the exclusive Use.

Visual gardens is most important as this home area has no to limited gardens nor parks. However, this space is limited in size for a true park with play equipment or for other types of outdoor sports. A garden destination would be excellent and it would be a great walking entryway into town.

As a landscape designer, I feel strongly that this space is not large enough to be recreational and would better serve the community as a respite. A quiet place for sitting, reading, meditating, and enjoying gardens and connecting to nature - a mental health break from everyday life. Not that children in teens would not be welcome, it simply would have a different purpose than all of the other recreational spaces we have around town. It would be special

My kids and I went there all the time when they were young (they are now 22 and 24 years old). We could walk there and it was a nice quiet local park. Their favorite things were the monkey bars, running across the bridge and the double slide so they could race down with their parents.

I hope it is rebuilt as it was originally intended - a place for neighborhood families to walk/bike to for their children to play. A nice quiet area as their are homes across the street. It should be modernized but include similar features as was originally on the place ground. It would be nice for it to be a little bit of an "art piece" so it is pretty to look at as well as a playground with a bench for parents to watch their kids play and a pretty small flower garden to look at.

Q15

The city should limit the items at this small green space. It should be quiet items not to disturb the neighbors in the houses across the street.

Q14

Please share any ideas, hopes, or concerns you have about the future of this greenspace:

This green space serves the houses on the opposite side of the street with a green buffet area from the parking structure. It's important to maintain the current planting but it would be great to plant low maintenance natives. Beyond that, installing a new playscape with materials that can last into perpetuity is a goal. Developing a group of citizens who could research and find modern designs that accommodate a large range of ages would be great. This little area is really a great for the neighborhood.

Q15

Are there any final thoughts you would like to share?

Doing a quick internet search, there is a ton of information on designing playscapes for kids. This is a great opportunity to develop a new play structure that perhaps can last into perpetuity, have great play features for kids and look great.

Q16

If there was another park that you wish this area mirrored, which would it be and what attributes?

One that really stands out is a playscape in Ferndale. Clean, modern design that draws you in with a "fun" enticing vibe.

I would love to see a space for fun art installations like the dogs and cats walkway in Miami or Prismatic. Something primarily geared towards pedestrians and dog walkers or a place where people would grab a coffee and sit for awhile. Engaging but not over-activated due to homes being directly across the street.

There already is a smooth paved walkway.

Q14

Please share any ideas, hopes, or concerns you have about the future of this greenspace:

Hopes: a place for young children or families to enjoy a native garden—like MSU children's garden—that incorporates nature, art, and discovery/play. Concerns: Teens eventually destroyed previous structure; homeless camping out at night concerned RO police. Seems a native garden/sensory garden is an Opportunity for a green space in a downtown area rimmed with a neighborhood. It would be a good transitional zone, a buffer. a daytime place. So referring to # 12, a mixed use—a nature/sensory garden that would be good for children ... and all ages.

Are there any final thoughts you would like to share?

The ring neighborhoods deserve some green spaces that act as a buffer between the CBD and our homes. We're already looking at more construction nearby with tall apt bldg, we have baker college nearby, we hear loud music from nearby bars and parking structure at times. A green buffer zone would help. We've lost what landscaping there once was through attrition. Nothing was maintained or cared for. Only action taken was pruning trees as if they were blocking sight lines of traffic— they weren't treated as a community green space or a buffer, as we are promised. Even a rain garden would be welcome
